NAZIS THROWN FOR NINE-MILE LOSS

Germans Driven Out Of Le Cateau, Landrecies By French Tank Corps

By RALPH HEINZEN
British United Press. Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin.

FRENCH ARMY GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, Western Front, May 20.—French tanks have gone into action in the battle between the River Somme and the Oise canal, on the hot plains of Picardy, and in the First French victory of the German blitzkrieg have thrown back the Nazi forces for a nine-mile loss.

The tank corps stopped the Germans here Saturday and then, counter-attacking, drove the Germans out of Le Cateau and Landrecies, to regain a hold on both banks of the Oise river between Maubeuge and St. Quentin.

Fifty miles from their bases of supply, the German advanced motorized columns were in some difficulty under the intense French counter-attacks and generally it was apparent here that the whole German drive, while proceeding, had been slowed.

French 75-millimeter field guns were used successfully against the German attacks Saturday on the Sambre-Oise sector when the Germans resumed their drive on the Meuse bulge. In the first operation, it was said at general headquarters, the tanks were stopped by point-blank fire. Then the French sent their tanks in to destroy two columns of German motorized infantry which had followed the German tanks.

It was this operation which forced the retreat from Le Cateau across the canal and back through Landrecies.

The Germans have continued the tactics they used in Poland—tanks massed in the spearhead of the attack, preceding long columns of infantry which are carried into battle on pneumatic tired trucks. Against such a steel front there is only one retort—more tanks.

MANY TANKS DESTROYED

After anti-tank mines had been blown up in the German path—destroying many of the German tanks where were none to stop the second wave.

WHEAT TRADE IS DISCUSSED IN COMMITTEE

Decision On Closing Of Exchange Set Over To Tuesday

By GRANT DEXTER
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, May 20.—The decision of the future wheat marketing policy goes over until tomorrow. The wheat sub-committee will hold another meeting tomorrow evening.

OTTAWA, May 20.—The cabinet sub-committee on wheat is in conference with the wheat board this morning discussing whether or not the Winnipeg market is to be closed. Immediate decision is possible but not probable. Large delegations representing the grain exchange, the elevator companies, the pools and other parts of the trade are here and unless the cabinet decides to deal with the matter as an acute emergency, they will be heard before the decision is reached.

Hitherto the cabinet has declined to close the market. It may be assumed that hitherto the wheat board has advised them not to close it.

What the decision now will be is uncertain. But it is evident that influential persons, both on the board and in the cabinet, who have hitherto supported the open market are now either doubtful or in favor of closing it. There will still be a strong group in favor of the open market, with a pegged price, and they may convince the cabinet to continue the market.

CLEAR CUT ARGUMENT

The argument for and against is clear cut. Those in favor of closing the market say that Hitler's blitzkrieg has reduced our wheat buyers to a handful of countries.

Thus from last August 1 to the end of February, Canada exported 108,000,000 bushels of wheat and flour. In terms of wheat, Holland took 9,103,000 bushels, Belgium 8,582,000, Norway 5,140,000, Denmark 2,218,000, or 22,022,000 in all. On top of this Britain took 64,925,000. But in addition Sweden and Finland, now virtually cut off, took 1,196,000 and Switzerland whose future is most uncertain, both as a nation and as an importer of Canadian wheat, took 3,637,000. If you add these up you account for all of our exports except 16,000,000 bushels, of which the U.S. and the West Indies took more than half.

CLOSE MARKET

From these figures it is argued that the number of important purchasers is so reduced that the best thing to do is to close the market and negotiate agreements with Britain, France and the others wherby we would sell at a given price.

The other side of the argument is that, notwithstanding the loss of customers, the government would be well advised to maintain the market with a peg to prevent it dropping below a given point. The present peg is fractionally higher than 70 cents. If the market rose above this price, it would be an indispensable barometer of price and would fairly decide the dispute as to what western farmers think they should get and what the British buyers are prepared to pay.

If the market is closed, an agreement with Britain is regarded as inevitable and whatever the agreed price may be there will be profound dissatisfaction.

NAZI ADVANCE IN SEDAN AREA HAS SLACKENED

London Spokesman Says Situation Is Morally Improved

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, May 20.—"Holes are being plugged," it was stated here today, while the German advances in the Sedan area showed a tendency to slacken.

"The situation today is undoubtedly pretty grim," it was stated by a military spokesman. "There is no use pretending that geographically it is any better, but morally I think it is.

"The bulge in the French line has been widened slightly but it has not been driven much deeper. The general direction of the German movement now is northwest."

GOT BLOODY NOSE

In Belgium, he said, every time the Germans attacked the British Expeditionary Force "they got a bloody nose."

"There has never been a dent in the British lines in this long sector and the withdrawal has been dictated by strategy, not necessity," it was added.

The French 75's, firing over open sights, have been "extraordinarily effective" against the big German tanks. Thousands of these famous guns, which when operated by a well-trained crew can fire 30 times a minute, have been rushed to defensive positions along the route of the German advance.

The big change in the general military position today is the moral one. The appointment of General Maxime Weygand, Marshal Ferdinand Foch's right-hand man, as commander in chief in all threatres of war, has thrown new heart and fresh confidence into the French and British people.

Marshal Foch on his deathbed, advised that if France ever were in danger again to send for Weygand, adding, "he has never been beaten." The French have now sent for General Weygand.

The 73-year-old general is des-

King Expected Extend Scope Of Air Training

By GRANT DEXTER
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, May 20—Expectations are that Premier Mackenzie King will announce an extension of Canada's air training program in his speech this afternoon. The extension will be achieved by using commercial pilots wherever available as instructors, and it may be possible to obtain large numbers of them in the United States in addition tot hose available in Canada.

This extension will not take place in the air training plan proper, as the British government does not want this plan changed and already it is ahead of schedule.

But the Canadian government could launch an additional air training scheme of its own, and this, it is learned, is likely to be announced this afternoon.

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, May 20.—United States citizens were advised today by the U.S. legation to leave Egypt "while there still remains an opportunity to do so," because of the possibility of the war spreading to the Mediterranean area.

Furious Assault Needed To Regain Mastery In War

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, May 20.—Prime Minister Churchill warned the Empire last night, as the Allied forces were placed under a new supreme command, that "mastery can only be regained by a furious unrelenting assault" on the Nazis.

The military situation was described here as "increasingly grave," as the destinies of Britain and France were entrusted to General Maxime Weygand, who replaced General Marie-Gustave

Gamelin as chief of the French general staff and becomes commander-in-chief of all theatres of war.

Following a conference lasting an hour and a half with ministers and defence chiefs at No. 10 Downing street, Mr. Churchill broadcast his message to the nation and it was rebroadcast internationally. He expressed confidence the stabilization of the western front would be achieved, but solemnly warned:

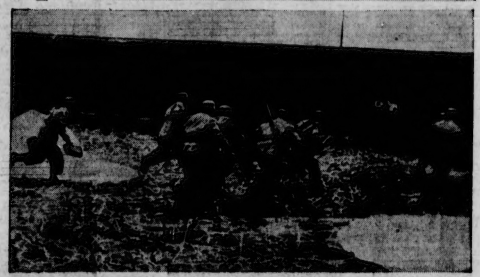

BATTLE FOR BRITAIN

"After this battle in France abates its force there will come the battle for our islands; they are all that Britain has, and all that Britain means. That will be the struggle."

The prime minister, in his first broadcast since he assumed office, called on every man and woman in the nation for a supreme effort in this hour of danger, and renewed his pledge of his all-party government "to wage war until victory is won, and never to surrender our-

R.A.F. RAIDS GERMAN LINES SUCCESSFULLY

Nazi Planes Destroyed—Oil Refineries Set On Fire

LONDON, May 20—The air ministry announced tonight that 20 German aircraft were destroyed during the day and that successful attacks were made on oil refineries in northwest Germany last night.

A statement said that Royal Air Force bombers made a direct hit on a railway bridge at Roux, south of Brussels.

Two British aircraft failed to return from bombing raids.

The airdrome at Vaernes, north of Trondheim in Norway, also was said to have been successfully attacked last night and seven fires started.

The statement said that in addition to the two bombers lost, 14 British fighters are missing.

HIT COMMUNICATIONS

In bomb raids south of Brussels the R. A. F. hammered enemy communication lines and railway stations and bridges.

The air ministry said "Damage was done to rolling stock and the permanent way," and that "Troop and tank concentrations were attacked in the Aisne sector."

"Near Sedan a ferry park was set on fire," the statement added.

The bombers encountered intense anti-aircraft fire. In Vaernes, the air ministry said, "A large number of enemy aircraft standing out in the airdrome were repeatedly bombed and machine-gunned by relays of Hudson aircraft; much damage is believed to have been done."

Hanson Assures His Address Is Non-Partisan

OTTAWA, May 20—Conservative Leader R. B. Hanson, opening debate in the Commons today on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, assured the government his remarks would be strictly "non-partisan" because of the situation in which Canada finds herself at the moment.

"If there was ever a righteous war in the history of mankind, this one is," Mr. Hanson said. It was essentially a war of "high spiritual values."

Because of the importance of the issues, he would utter no partisan observations but maintain a national attitude.

Britain Prepares For Total War On Home Soil

British United Press Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON, May 20—Great Britain prepared for the total war at home today, spurred on by the warning of Prime Minister Winston hurchill that their very lives and homes m gihthave to be sacrificed in the struggle against Germany. Today, barbed wire barricades continued to be thrown up around the government buildings in Whitehall and at key centers. Anti-parachute defenses were gearred and the people went grimly about their business as the first trainloads of wounded British soldiers were removed to hospitals in the interior.

Bill Gives New Route For C.N.R.

OTTAWA, May 20.—A bill to grant Canadian National Railways rights to perpetuity to a new route into the city of Vancouver was introduced to parliament today by Transport Minister Howe.

The bill would ratify an agreement respecting joint use by the C.N.R. of certain tracks and premises of the Vancouver, Victoria and Eastern Railway and Navigation company.

ITALY IS FELT READY ENTER WAR QUICKLY

Fascist Leaders Warn Nation To Prepare For Struggle

By REYNOLDS PACKARD
British United Press Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin

ROME, May 20.—Italy was believed ready today to enter the war on short notice.

Fascist leaders, presumably with Benito Mussolini's approval, warned the nation to prepare for war and it was reported that Mussolini had turned down flatly President Roosevelt's appeal for peace.

Some quarters said he was playing his "moral" part in the conflict by keeping the Allies' attention diverted to an ever-increasing danger in southeastern Europe.

Mussolini's son-in-law, Count Galeazzo Ciano, the foreign minister, in a speech at Milan yesterday said that the nation was ready for war as soon as Mussolini gave "the word."

General Weygand Succeeds Gamelin As Army Leader

PARIS, May 20.—General Maxime Weygand, chief of staff to Marshal Foch in the last war, last night was named commander-in-chief of Allied forces replacing General Marie-Gustave Gamelin, as climax to a week-end shake-up of France's military, political and diplomatic organization. There was no indication immediately as to what post had been reserved for General Gamelin.

General Weygand, hitherto in command of French forces in the near east was officially named "chief of the national defence general staff and commander-in-chief of all theatres of operation" in a decree signed by President Lebrun.

The sweeping re-organization came two days after Premier Reynaud, who assumed the portfolio of national defence Saturday, told the nation in a broadcast: "Perhaps we shall have to change methods and men."

The new allied generalissimo returned from the east Saturday. He conferred Sunday evening with Premier Reynaud and Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, 84, "conqueror of Verdun" recalled from his post as ambassador at Madrid and made vice-premier in the cabinet shake-up. Shortly after the conference Weygand's appointment was announced.

General Weygand, 73-year-old hero of the first Great War, became chief of the French general staff in 1935. The following year he was named commander-in-chief of the French army and vice-president of the supreme war council.

In 1935, at the age-limit of 68, he

Allies Shaping Counter-Moves Against Nazis

General Weygand Plans Powerful Pincers Attack From Valenciennes And Rethel Areas — French Units Massed

PARIS, May 20.—The evening communique of the French high command tonight said the German push toward the English channel had reached a point west of St. Quentin.

Fresh German attacks at Montmedy, northwesternmost point of the Maginot line proper, were repulsed by the French, the communique said.

"On May 20 the German push continued very intense in the region north and west of St. Quentin," it said.

"Fresh enemy attacks were repulsed in the Montmedy region.

"The great activity of our aviation continued through the day.

"Numerous reconnaissance flights paved the way for the engagement of bomber formations against enemy armored elements.

"Heavy bombs were dropped on (enemy) columns, delaying their progress and inflicting severe losses on them."

PARIS, May 20.—French military sources tonight announced loss of Peronne, on the Somme river about 18 miles northwest of St. Quentin.

It was not immediately certain whether the town had been seized only by German motorized advance units or had been occupied.

La Fere, south and slightly east of St. Quentin, remains in French hands, as does Laon, a few miles southeast of La Fere, the military spokesman said.

BASEL, Switzerland, May 20.—General Maxime Weygand, the new Allied commander, apparently is shaping a powerful pincers counter-offensive from the Valenciennes and Rethel areas, it was reported here today. Reports reaching Switzerland indicate that a powerful British-Belgian force, supported by French motorized units, is massing in the Valenciennes region and still more powerful French concentrations are assembling at Rheims and Rethel, behind the Aisne river.

Valenciennes is just across the Belgian frontier in France along the northern flank of the Allies' western front. Rethel is on the south side of the German "bulge" into northern France. General Weygand, who succeeded General Gamelin yesterday as the Allied commander-in-chief, is said to envisage a counter-thrust from these two sides aimed at sewing up the German pocket, which has reached a point about 80 miles northeast of Paris.

Such a manoeuvre would re-establish the French line along the Ardennes through Mons to Ghent.

Heavy French concentrations south of Rethel were reported to include large tank and armored car divisions and to be ready to move, despite constant Nazi bombing raids from airports behind the Rhine.

Foreign military observers here reported the German westward drive was confined to such a narrow point between Saint Quentin and Le Cateau, about 30 miles to the northeast, as almost to invite an Allied counter-offensive from the south, east and northwest.

SENATE BODY FAVORS BILL FOR DEFENCE

Military Leaders Urge Speed In Developing Air Armada

WASHINGTON, May 20. — A $1,250,941,000 defence bill, unprecedented for the United States in peace time, was quick approval of the Senate appropriations committee today while the military leaders urged speedy realization of President Roosevelt's goal of an air armada of 50,000 planes.

Leaders arranged to start Senate debate tomorrow, and the defence bill may go to the House of Representatives for consideration of Senate amendments by mid-week.

CASH AVAILABLE

Of the total in the bill $1,497,711,368 cash would be available for expenditure immediately upon President Roosevelt's signature of the legislation.

The measure, carrying far more than any previous peace time appropriation, includes Mr. Roosevelt's recently-requested allotment of $845,770,364 in cash and $186,229,636 in contract authorizations for army expansion and purchases of airplanes, material, machinery and supplies.

QUICKLY AS POSSIBLE

The call to the aviation industry, in the words of government officials, was to build up a 50,000-plane fleet as quickly, as efficiently and as cheaply as possible.

Essentials of the air program were outlined by army, navy, treasury and civil aeronautics authority leaders at a hastily-called conference of manufacturers of airplanes, engines, machine tools and allied products.

Matching the high-placed government officials in the conference were many of the best-known names in aviation.

BRITISH PUT GREAT FAITH IN WEYGAND

By H. L. PERCY
British United Press Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON, May 20.—Britain places great faith in Weygand and it is understood that he will direct the British and Belgian as well as French armies.

Britain's main concern is over the Belgian and French channel ports. Germans dispatches said that the assault in central Belgium have carried the German troops 25 miles west of Brussels to the Dendre sector—within 60 miles of the British coast.

The British frankly discuss the possibility that the Allies will lose Belgium completely and be forced to make a stand around Dunkerque, France.

Also, Prime Minister Winston Churchill said that when the battle in France abated—regardless of the outcome—"there will be a battle for England." He told Britons, in other words, that a fight on their home soil is more than likely and that they must prepare for it.

HARD ASSAULT IS NEEDED FOR WAR MASTERY

selves to servitude and shame, whatever the cost and the agony may be."

France, he declared, will fight to the end. "be it bitter, be it glorious." He had "invincible confidence" in the French army and a small part of which has been heavily engaged.

Analyzing the situation caused by the infiltration of German mechanized forces through French divisions holding the western front, Mr. Churchill warned: "The armies must cast away the idea of resisting attack behind concrete lines or natural obstacles, and must realize that mastery can only be regained by furious and unrelenting assault, and this spirit must not only animate the high command but must inspire every fighting man."

TASK IS TO WIN WAR

Rallying Britons to a supreme effort, he said that "in this supreme emergency we shall not fail to take every step, even the most drastic, to call forth from our people the last ounce and the last inch of effort of which they are capable."

"Our task is not only to win the battle but to win the war," he said.

The Prime Minister conceded that "The Germans, by a remarkable combination of air bombing and heavily armored tanks have broken through the French defences north of the Maginot line and strong columns of their armored vehicles are ravaging the open country which for the first day or two was without defenders."

"They have penetrated deeply and spread alarm and confusion in their track. Behind them are now pouring infantry in lorries and behind them again large masses are moving forward," he said.

Regrouped French armies ably supported by Royal Air Force bombers have begun to stem the German tide and have even succeeded in punching back in one counter-attack through the German lines, the Prime Minister said. Calling the position "extremely dangerous" for both sides, he held forth the hope that "a sudden transformation of the scene might spring into being."

FIGHT FOR MANKIND

It would be foolish either to minimize the danger, he said, or to lose heart and suppose that the well-trained armies of the British Allied armies could be overcome in a few weeks or months "by a scoop, or raid, or mechanized forces, however formidable."

Both French and British forces will fight to the bitter end, Mr. Churchill said, on behalf of all the "shattered states and bludgeoned races" of Europe, but for all mankind.

Desy At St. Adresse

ST. ADRESSE, France, May 20.—Jean Desy, Canadian minister to Belgium, has joined the Belgian government at this Normandy town, it was learned today.

NAZI ADVANCE IN SEDAN AREA HAS SLACKENED

cribed here as "quick, alert and brilliant. He is the sort of man who inspires confidence in a tired army and lifts a nation from despair and uncertainty.

General Weygand's appointment, although it caught the British people unprepared, has been extremely well received here. They regard him as a man of determined action.

NO BREAK THROUGH

The spokesman declared the Belgians have been fighting magnificently and that there has been no break through their lines. Liege and Namur, important railroad centres in Belgium, still are holding out.

"Despite what the Germans might have said, we have not abandoned any material. Our boys are now getting used to bombing and are protecting themselves accordingly.

"We are not losing many men through these bombings now, but the noise is great and unpleasant."

Ready, in the words of Prime Minister Churchill, to "face, endure and retaliate against" the air force of Germany, Britain concentrated on combating that power and its possible bicer at the British Isles.

STRICTER CONTROL

Stricter control of industry, notably the airplane industry, was believed indicated by Prime Minister Churchill's statement last night that considerations of private property would not be allowed to interfere with the government's war effort.

Britain expected that the government would assume control of a large number of privately-owned factories for producing war equipment in order to intensify production.

Mr. Churchill may discuss plans for stepped-up production when he makes a statement in the House of Commons, perhaps tomorrow.

At the same time Lord Beaverbrook, new minister of air production, issued an appeal to garage workers to accept employment immediately in aircraft factories for assembly work.

However, Britain relied on the efficiency of her huge air raids precautions organization to make it impossible for massed Nazi bombing attacks to score effectively.

LACKED DEFENCES

Observers pointed out that cities like Rotterdam—where the Dutch legation in Paris announced, at least 100,000 persons were killed by methodical German attacks—lacked London's balloon barrage, her underground shelters and her auxiliary fire services.

On the offensive side, the air ministry announced that Royal Air Force bombers over the week-end raided German communications centres and supply bases from Hamburg in the north to Sedan in the south. The R.A.F. centres its attacks on oil stores, marshalling yards and concentrations of the dive bombers which form the spearhead of the Nazi offensive.

20 PLANES DOWNED

At least 20 German planes were reported shot down.

On land, headquarters of the British Expeditionary Force announced: "The British front was firmly surrounding in the face of enemy pressure."

While 12 special trains carried 8,000 children from the English coast, exposed to German aerial air raids, to shelter in Wales, two hospital trains from a British port carried to the provinces the first British wounded brought from Belgium.

Wounded related that Germany's shock troops were using "gangster" tactics.

"My platoon was guarding a railway embankment," one soldier related. "During the night the Germans forced their way across a canal not far in front of us. At daybreak, having got on our side, they began to move forward. There were about a dozen of them, each armed with a tommygun.

SUICIDE JOB

"One stayed on the bank to cover his comrades and the rest set off, each working entirely on his own in a fanwise formation.

"It was a suicidal job for men to undertake single-handed but they did it. They worked quite independently, firing as fast as they could at everyone they saw until either reinforcements caught up with them or they were shot."

GENERAL MAXIME WEYGAND

resigned and turned his posts over to General Gamelin. When war broke out he was recalled to active service and named commander-in-chief of French forces in the near east.

General Weygand commanded a Hussar regiment in 1913. He was named chief of staff to Marshal Foch at the outbreak of war the next year.

AT POST UNTIL 1923

His tactical brilliance was so outstanding that he remained in the same post until 1923. Seven years earlier, at the age of 60, he had become a brigadier-general.

He was responsible for reorganization of the Polish army in 1920. In 1923 he was named high commissioner in Syria.

The diplomatic shifts to "Give France's foreign policy and her representation abroad its maximum efficiency" was announced by the premier late Saturday night.

Edouard Daladier, the war minister, took over the foreign ministry held by Reynaud. A new interior minister was announced in the person of Georges Mandel, whom the French premier called a "Disciple of Clemenceau."

Besides Marshal Petain, the only new face in Reynaud's cabinet is Leon Baraty, vice-president of the chamber of deputies, who replaced Louis Rollin as commerce minister.

Rollin took over the colonial portfolio held by Mandel, became interior minister in the place of Henrio Roy.

Roy was asked to take the colonial portfolio, but declined on the ground that it required a particular technical knowledge that he lacked. No new portfolio was announced for Camille Chautemps, who had been vice-premier.

France at Charles-Roux, French ambassador to the Vatican since 1922, was appointed secretary-general of the French foreign office, replacing Alexis Leger.

SITUATION GRAVE

Reynaud, presenting his new government Saturday in a five-minute broadcast told the people:

"You have all heard that the enemy succeeded in reaching the Meuse and is approaching toward the west. The situation is grave—the French people realize that.

"It is graver than in any past years, but it is no way desperate.

"The morale of the French army is excellent.

"Each Frenchman, whether in the army or not tonight must take an oath that his motto will be to conquer."

Weygand Known As Foch's "Shadow"

By The Canadian Press

General Maxime Weygand, 73, named supreme commander of the Allied forces Sunday, was a close associate of the late Marshal Foch in the last war, but was trusted so completely by Foch that he became known as "Marshal Foch's shadow."

"Soe Weygand about this," was a by-word at the French general headquarters in first Great War days, so frequently did Foch use the expression.

"Activity, vigilance and decision" were the qualities ascribed to Weygand when in 1918 he was made a commander of the French Legion of Honor.

He was born in Brussels, Belgium, Jan. 21, 1867, and became a French citizen when he was 20. He had received French military instruction earlier as "a student of foreign nationality."

In 1888 he enlisted in the French army as a second lieutenant of cavalry. By 1914 he was a captain. In 1912 he was advanced to lieutenant-colonel and at the start of the last war to colonel. He was assigned to the general staff and became chief of staff of one of the armies. In 1916 he became chief of staff of the armies under Foch.

The two were inseparable thereafter.

General Marie-Gustave Gamelin, predecessor of Weygand as Allied chief in the present war, was another of another French hero of the last war—Marshal Joffre. Gamelin is five years younger than Weygand.

Gamelin is a marvel at detail, map making and analysis, and Foch once said of him that he remembered every order he had ever received. He was credited with having predicted German invasion of Belgium years before the last war, pointing out that logically Belgium was the ideal pathway from Germany to France.

Greatest achievement of Gamelin was "pacification" of Syria. He was sent there in 1925 to smash a rebellion by mountain tribesmen.

During the last war Gamelin rose from major to general. Being a younger man he did not attain prominence then comparable to Weygand's.

Allies Shaping Counter-Moves Against Nazis

The situation there is confused, the spokesman said, with charges and counter-charges between French and German columns of tanks.

"Fighting was particularly heavy in the western suburbs of St. Quentin yesterday," he added.

The French also faced an enemy "push" north of St. Quentin. Military advices said an extreme advance German motorcycle squad reached Peronne—15 miles northwest of St. Quentin—yesterday but withdrew at nightfall to avoid being cut off.

Heavy Enemy Attack East Of Cambrai

The spokesman reported that other German columns attacked heavily east of Cambrai, which is 25 miles north of St. Quentin.

The full weight of Allied mechanized forces has been thrown against the German armored divisions along a 40-mile line between the Sambre and the Oise just east of St. Quentin.

This became the main sector of the fluctuating battle front yesterday when it became apparent that the western thrust of the Nazi army toward the Channel ports represents the main direction of the German attack, a military spokesman said.

Action along other sectors was little less intense, but was regarded by French military quarters as secondary. At the Aisne near Rethel some German units succeeded in crossing the river, but were thrown back with heavy losses in casualties and prisoners taken.

Attack Repulsed With Heavy Losses

Farther east, the Germans launched their largest mass attack so far against the fortifications of the Maginot line proper. The spear of the attack was near Montmedy, northwestern terminus of the main fortifications. The general staff spokesman this morning said this attack had been repulsed at all but one point, with heavy losses suffered by the enemy. The Germans still held one small advance casemate.

But the central state of this vast theatre of war was along the west bank of the canal linking the Oise to the Sambre, running northwest to southeast past St. Quentin into the Oise valley.

Here thousands of steel monsters were in action in the most gigantic clash of modern cavalry-on-wheels the war has yet produced. The Germans were believed to have shoved in four to five armored divisions—a full army corps. Against them the Allies have moved their full strength in mechanized forces operating in this sector.

The German forces engaged along this battlefront are the same that have been advancing for eight days under continuous Allied aerial bombardment and along twisted and bomb-marked roads. They are moving west, which is the direction now of all the main German attacks. All other actions are diversions to aid the flanks of this general westerly movement.

For the past two days British and French mobile divisions have been moving up and are now engaged with their full weight. The struggle battle is a pell-mell, green, takes on a character absolutely new in modern warfare. There can be no question of a continuous front maintained by these huge mobile forts. They are functioning more like the heavy cavalry of former times.

They are flanked by detachments of mobile machine guns and motor-cyclists who can be compared to the light cavalry and Hussars of the now-dimmed past. Their task is to drive forward as far and as fast as possible and "to do damage" to the enemy's flanks.

MILLIONS OF HORSE POWER

But where in the old days in a big battle thousands of horses might be involved, here it is a question of millions of horse-power moving at speeds no horse ever attained. Armored detachments deploy for action, clash with the enemy and retire under cover of darkness to avoid being cut off.

It was under these conditions that a few detachments of German motorcyclists arrived on the Aisne canal near Laon and last night nearly to Peronne, 20 miles northwest of St. Quentin.

CONCEPTION OUTMODED

To grasp the character and scope of these operations, one has to divest himself of the conception of a battlefront which stems from the Great War of 1914-18. That conception has been totally outmoded by the circumstances of modern war in 1940. Characterized mainly by the operation on land of forts in motion at an average of 30 miles an hour and of huge bombing planes in the air at enormous speeds.

Southeast of the great battle of St. Quentin only local forward were in progress. The Germans tried a surprise attack against several points on the Aisne near Rethel. At two points they succeeded in putting several detachments on the south bank. At all other points they were repulsed and at these two points the Germans units were surrounded and taken prisoners during the night.

The attack on the Maginot line at Montmedy was preceded by extremely powerful artillery preparation. Then dense masses of infantry attempted to storm the forts themselves. It is here that the Maginot line began with its full depth of interlocking forts and casemates. The attacking troops were brought under the direct fire of the forts and suffered enormous losses without gaining a single advantage except occupation of one of the small advance casemates used by vanguard troops.

NOTHING TO REPORT

Along the rest of the Maginot line, from Montmedy to the French frontier, there was nothing to report.

In the north, the Allied strategic withdrawal was proceeding on schedule. The British threw off a number of German attacks on their rearguard as the main Anglo-Belgian forces continued their movement to join the principal French army.

The morning general staff communique follows:

VIGOROUS FIGHTING

"Our troops are fighting vigorously in the region north of St. Quentin to hold up the enemy drive. In the vicinity of Rethel, elements of the enemy forces succeeded in crossing the Aisne were thrown back during the night.

"In the region of Montmedy, German attacks were renewed with the same intensity. They were repulsed.

"During the night our bombing planes carried out with extreme vigor the plan for disorganization of enemy supplies."

Oswald Mosley's Public Address System Wrecked

MIDDLETON, Lancashire, May 20.—An angry crowd smashed Fascist Leader Sir Oswald Mosley's public address system and broke up a political meeting Sunday.

Club-swinging police protected Sir Oswald from the crowd and escorted him to his car.

The meeting was staged to support the candidacy of a member of "British Union" in a bye-election in the Middleton and Prestwich division.

Ambulance Corps Unable To Handle All Of Casualties

NEW YORK, May 20.—James Wood Johnson, president of the American Volunteer Ambulance Corps, announced that a cable received yesterday from the corps' French office disclosed that members of the corps were working day and night near the front lines but were unable to care for the great number of casualties.

FRANCE SHOWS NEW SIGNS OF BATTLE FEVER

By RALPH HEINZEN
British United Press Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin

PARIS, May 20.— As Premier Paul Reynaud named Weygand commander in chief, there are other signs that France is girding herself for a real fight.

Dance halls in Paris are closed.

Georges Mandel — new interior minister — named M. Winter as chief of the Surete National . . . the French Scotland Yard.

Alexis Leger has been supplanted by Jean Charles Roux as secretary general of the foreign office.

Workers at a national defence factory in the Paris region turned over to police 10 of their fellows who had refused to report for work yesterday. The police handed the recalcitrants over to military authorities.

had asserted that Italy was on the road to war; and there had been numerous demonstrations against the "starving" blockade of Great Britain and France.

Speaking in Milan on the occasion of the first anniversary of the signing of the Rome-Berlin axis agreement, Ciano said:

"United in spirit and faith, the Italian people are getting ready to meet a new task to which they may be called. Maybe you know better than I do what this task is. But it is inspired by the defense of our rights as a sovereign state on land, sea and in the air and by the necessity of finally achieving our aspirations which are natural because they are just and indispensable to the life of a nation which is dictated by the necessity of maintaining the high and unsullied prestige of Italy. This great Fascist nation intends to keep faith with her obligations and together with these for an ever greater destiny."

STAND BY AGREEMENT

Ciano's reference to Italy's keeping her obligations was taken as an indication that Mussolini would stand by his end of the Rome-Berlin agreement, which not only called for cultural and economic collaboration, but also mutual military aid in case either nation needed or asked for it.

There was no official indication of what Mussolini said in reply to Mr. Roosevelt's reported plea for peace. The semi-official news agency had reported Friday that Mr. Roosevelt's message, a personal note to Mussolini, was in connection with a new peace move, but warned foreign correspondents not to speculate on the contents. Today, however, there was no speculation required. Official quarters let it be known that Mussolini's attitude regarding the war was unchanged. This was regarded as being tantamount to a rejection of the Roosevelt peace bid. And in some quarters it was believed that Ciano's speech at Milan was a answer to Mr. Roosevelt's message.

PREMIER KING MAY ANNOUNCE THIRD DIVISION

OTTAWA, May 20.—Prime Minister Mackenzie King is expected to announce an intensification of Canada's war effort all along the line when he speaks in the House of Commons today, and the formation of a 3rd division in the Canadian Active Service Forces looms as a strong possibility for the immediate future.

In the naval, military, air and supply spheres, action to speed the application of Canada's manpower and resources to the task of winning the war is afoot.

The latest war developments emphasize the need for land forces as well as air forces. The 1st Canadian Division is ready for a shift to France and a 3rd division would be raised to replace the 2nd when the latter is sent to England.

The Prime Minister may announce this step today, in addition to outlining progress in air training, in the development of a defensive naval force, and in the acquisition of munitions and supplies.

With the British Commonwealth air training plan requiring larger and larger classes of recruits each month as it expands, and with reinforcements being raised for the 1st division and other units overseas, recruiting in Canada will be more active in the next few weeks. There is virtually no recruiting now except for the Royal Canadian Air Force.

British Deprives Aliens Of Right To Possess Firearms

LONDON, May 20—Great Britain today deprived all aliens of the right to possess firearms—a further precaution against any "fifth column" of German sympathizers behind the home front.

The home office issued the order "prohibiting aliens from possessing firearms, ammunition or explosives without a special permit from police." Only air rifles and air pistols are excepted.

The order applies to aliens of all nationalities in the United Kingdom. They must surrender such possessions to the police immediately.

Military Funeral Is Held For Fliers Killed In Ontario

TRENTON, Ont., May 20—Full military honors were accorded Saturday to four Royal Canadian Air Force fliers who died Friday in a crash near Cobourg, Ont., while on a cross-country night navigation flight.

The airmen were Flight Lieutenant H. B. Jasper of Winnipeg, Flying Officer J. S. Pidcock of Montreal; Flying Officer G. E. Auld of Toronto, and Aircraftsman J. R. Keen of Windsor, Ont.

$200,000 Loss In Glace Bay Fire On Sunday

GLACE BAY, N.S., May 20.—Fire wiped out the Dominion Coal Company's general machine shop here last yesterday with an estimated loss of about $200,000.

The fire threw about 260 men out of work and though it is half over the outbreak nothing remained but a twisted mass of steel girders and machinery where there had stood a structure 300 by 80 feet.

Turkish Women Discard Traditional Harem Styles In New Fashion Move

British United Press
Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

ANKARA, May 20.—Turkish women, who so recently discarded the traditional harem veil and long trousers, are making a determined effort to capture the fashion crown of the East.

The Ismet Inonu Institute at Ankara, which teaches girls the arts of sewing, fashion design, millinery and pattern making, has already gained for itself the reputation of being the Paris of Turkey.

All the fashionable people of Turkey, led by the President's wife, come to the Institute for their clothes, hats and the beautifully-made linen and lingerie. The fashion show held yearly at the Institute is a highlight in Turkish society.

Most of the women clamour for Paris styles and get them because buyers go every year to Paris for the models, and the head of the dressmaking department of the Institute is a Parisian.

The Institute, which has a membership of 720 students, is part of the Turkish Republic's plan to make the country modern and up-to-date.

These students are compelled to intermingle their study of the arts with plain history and geography—and even some military science—in case war becomes more important to Turkey than the latest fashions.

But the Institute, not content with merely aping Paris style, is hoping to interest Turkish women in modern adaptations of their native garb.

Designers from distant countries as well as Turkish women are seeking designs which incorporate old Turkish embroideries, harem coats and trousers, the turban of a Moslem priest and the apron of a peasant.

U.S. NEED NOT FEAR ATTACK AIRMAN SAYS

Co-operation With Neighbor Nations Suggested By Lindbergh

WASHINGTON, May 20—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh said last night the American people need have no fear of attack unless they bring it on through quarreling and meddling with affairs abroad. Co-operation of western hemisphere nations would make simple the air defence of America, he declared in a broadcast address.

Advising co-operation with neighbor nations so that south American bases could be used for defensive bombers, Lindbergh said it was imperative that the United States adopt definite defence policies before embarking on vast increases in arms.

MUST FORTIFY BORDERS

"If we are to defend the United States alone, then we must construct numerous air bases along the Mexican and Canadian borders," he said. "Such a plan would require large numbers of small bombers and pursuit planes, and eventually it would leave us as vulnerable to air attack as the nations of Europe are today.

"An adequate air defence of the western hemisphere necessitates the co-operation of other nations of the hemisphere. Our military aircraft must have access to their bases. Their foreign policy must have some relationship to ours. We can not hold this hemisphere free from foreign war if nations which lie within it declare war on foreign powers."

His plea that the United States "stay out of foreign wars" was in line with his previous utterances since the war started. Last October he entered the controversy over neutrality legislation by proposing an embargo on the sale of "offensive weapons" abroad.

Lindbergh has contended there was "no justification" for either side in the war, and has argued that Great Britain and other European powers should "get out" of the western hemisphere.

RAPS F.D.R. POLICIES

By implication Lindbergh sharply criticized the Roosevelt administration's foreign policies.

Without specific mention of President Roosevelt's recent recommendation to Congress for an air force of 50,000 planes, he said:

"Until we have decided upon a definite policy of defence, the mere construction of large numbers of aircraft will not be adequate for our national safety.

"As long as American nations work together, as long as we maintain reasonable defence forces, there will be no invasion by foreign aircraft," he said. "And no foreign navy will dare to approach within bombing range of our coasts.

"We need a greater air force, a greater army and a greated navy; they have been inadequate for many years.

"Let us form with our neighboring nations a clear cut and definite policy of American defence. But above all, let us stop this hysterical chatter of calamity and invasion that has been running rife these last few days. It is not befitting the people who built this nation."

New York Times Attacks Speech

NEW YORK, May 20.—Summing up an editorial on Colonel Charles Lindbergh's broadcast speech last night, the New York Times said today:

"Colonel Lindbergh remains a great flier."

Lindbergh advised the American people to "stop this silly chatter of calamity and invasion that has been running rife these last few days."

"This 'silly chatter' is the talk that the Democracies of France and Great Britain stand in imminent danger of defeat by Germany," the Times said.

"Colonel Lindbergh is a peculiar young man if he can contemplate this possibility in any other light than as a calamity for the American people," the editorial added. "He is an ignorant young man if he trusts his own premise that it makes no difference to us whether we are deprived of the historic defence of British sea power in the Atlantic ocean. He is a blind young man if he really believes that we can live on terms of equal peace and happiness regardless of which side wins this war in Europe."

Six Are Injured In Car Crash On Calgary Street

CALGARY, May 20.—A car carrying seven persons struck a telephone pole and overturned in a spectacular crash on a downtown street Sunday morning, injuring six of the occupants, none seriously. The broken pole came down across the car after the crash.

The injured, who suffered cuts and bruises, were Ken Viccars, 17; Norman Ross, 18; Hugh MacBeth, 15; Gordon Pacoe, 17; T. J. Garnett, 26, and his son, William Garnett, all of Calgary.

Now On Bridge Of State

When this picture of Winston Churchill was taken he was on the bridge of a British destroyer. Today Churchill is on Britain's bridge of state as prime minister.

Text Of Premier Churchill's Speech

LONDON, May 20—Following is the text of the speech broadcast Sunday by Prime Minister Winston Churchill:

I speak to you for the first time as Prime Minister in a solemn hour for the life of our country, and our Empire, our allies, and above all, the cause of freedom. A tremendous battle is raging in France and Flanders. The Germans by remarkable combination of air bombing and heavily armored tanks have broken through the French defences north of the Maginot line, and strong columns of their armored vehicles are ravaging the open country, which for the first day or two was without defenders.

They have penetrated deeply and spread alarm and confusion in their track. Behind them are now pouring infantry in lorries and behind them again large masses are moving forward.

The regroupment of the French armies to make head against, and also to strike at, this intruding wedge has been proceeding over several days, largely assisted by magnificent efforts of the Royal Air Force.

TABLES MAY TURN

We must not allow ourselves to be intimidated by the presence of these armored vehicles in unexpected places behind our lines. If they are behind our front, the French are also at many points fighting actively behind theirs.

Both sides are therefore in an extremely dangerous position. If the French army and our own army are well-handled, as I believe they will be, if the French retain their genius for reserve and counter-attack for which they have so long been famous, and if the British army shows its dogged endurance and solid fighting power of which there have been so many examples in the past, then a sudden transformation of the scene might spring into being.

It would be foolish, however, to disguise the gravity of the hour. It would be still more foolish to lose heart and courage, or to suppose that well-trained, well-equipped armies numbering three or four millions of men can be overcome in the space of a few weeks or even months by a scoop or a raid of mechanized vehicles, however formidable.

CONFIDENCE IN ARMIES

We may look with confidence to the stabilization of the front in France and to the general engagement of the Nazis, which will enable the qualities of the French and the British soldiers to be matched squarely against those of their adversaries.

For myself, I have invincible confidence in the French army and its leaders. Only a very small part of that splendid army has yet been heavily engaged, and only a very small part of France has yet been invaded.

There is good evidence to show that practically the whole of the specialized and mechanized forces of the enemy have been already thrown into the battle, and we know that very heavy losses have been inflicted upon them. No officer or man, no brigade or division, which grapples at close quarters with the enemy, wherever encountered, can fail to make a worthy contribution to the general result.

The armies must cast away the idea of resisting attack behind concrete lines or natural obstacles, and must realize that mastery can only be regained by furious and unrelenting assault, and this spirit must not only animate the high command but must inspire every fighting man.

AIR BALANCE GROWS

In the air, often at serious odds, often at odds hitherto thought overwhelming, we have been clawing three or four to one of our enemies and the relative balance of the British and German air forces is now considerably more favorable to us than at the beginning of the battle.

In casting down the German bombers we are fighting our own battle as well as that of France. My confidence in our ability to fight it out to the finish with the German air force has been strengthened by the fierce encounters which have taken place and are taking place. At the same time our heavy bombers are striking mightily at the top root of German mechanized power and have already inflicted serious damage upon their oil refineries on which the Nazi effort to dominate the world directly depends.

We must expect that as soon as stability is reached on the western front, the bulk of that hideous apparatus of aggression which dashed to ruin and slavery in a few days will be turned upon us. I am sure I speak for all when I say that we are ready to face it, to endure it, and to retaliate against it to any extent that the unwritten law of war permits.

TIME FOR BEST EFFORT

There will be many men and many women in this island who, when the ordeal comes upon them, as come it will, will feel comfort, and even a pride that they are sharing the perils of our lads at the front—soldiers, sailors and airmen. God bless them—and are drawing away from them a part at least of the onslaught they have to bear.

Is not this the appointed time for all to make the utmost exertion in their power? If the battle is to be won, we must provide our men with ever-increasing quantities of the weapons and ammunition they need. They must have, and have quickly, more airplanes, more tanks, more shells, more guns. There is imperious need for these vital munitions.

They increase our strength against the powerfully armed enemy, they replace the wastage of obstinate struggle, and the knowledge that wastage will speedily be replaced enables us to draw more readily upon our reserves and threw them in now that everything counts so much.

TASK IS TO WIN WAR

Our task is not only to win the battle but to win the war. After this battle in France abates its force, there will come the battle for our islands; they are all that Britain has, and all that Britain means. That will be the struggle.

In that supreme emergency, we shall not hesitate to take every step, even the most drastic, to call forth from out our people the last ounce and to the last inch of effort of which they are capable. Whether it be property or labor, it is nothing compared to the struggle for life and honor, for life and freedom to which we have bound ourselves.

I have received from the chiefs of the French republic, and particularly from its indomitable prime minister, M. Reynaud, the most sacred pledges that whatever happens they will fight to the end, be it bitter or be it glorious—nay, if we fight to the end, it can only be glorious.

ONE BOND UNITES ALL

Having received His Majesty's commission, I have formed an administration of men and women of every party, and of almost every point of view. We have differed and quarreled in the past, but now one bond unites us all; to wage war until victory is won, and never to surrender ourselves to servitude and shame, whatever the cost and the agony may be.

If this is one of the most awe-striking periods in the long history of France and Britain, it is also beyond doubt the most sublime. Side by side, unaided except by their kith and kin in the great dominions and by the wide empires which rest beneath their shield, side by side the British and French people have advanced to rescue not only Europe but mankind from the foulest and most soul-destroying tyranny which has ever darkened and stained the pages of history.

Behind them, behind us, behind the armies and fleets of Britain and France, gather a group of shattered states and bludgeoned races—the Czechs, the Poles, the Norwegians, the Danes, the Dutch, the Belgians, upon all of whom the long night of barbarism will descend, unbroken by a star of hope, unless we conquer, as conquer we must, as conquer we shall.

Today is Trinity Sunday. Centuries ago, words were written to be a call and a spur to be faithful servants of truth and justice:

"Arm yourselves, and be ye men of valor, and be in readiness for the conflict, for it is better for us to perish in battle than to look upon the outrage of our nation and our altars. As the will of God is in Heaven, even so let him do."

NEW FINANCE SYSTEM NEED SAYS PREMIER

Definite Planning Needed For After War, States Aberhart

CALGARY, May 20—Declaring it was high time definite planning be done to meet after-the-war conditions, Premier Aberhart said "the present orthodox financial system was not able to carry the strain after the first Great War. It will be much less capable of sustaining it after the present war."

The premier spoke at the Calgary Prophetic Bible Institute Sunday afternoon and evening.

COST IS GREAT

Mr. Aberhart said "this war business is a costly affair and requires the utmost preparation; the greatest amount of sincerity and honesty. If war is conducted on a basis of graft and patronage, as too often it is, the results cannot help be disconcerting and disastrous."

When Cyril Hutchinson, secretary of the institute, asked what the total war debt would be, Mr. Aberhart replied "You tell me how long the war will last and I'll tell you what our total debt will be provided the present financial system can stand the strain.

"A cost of $4,000,000 a day would mean $1,460,000,000 a year debt, an increase of about 15 per cent a year will become a debt so five or six years will double the debt. I am satisfied orthodox finance cannot carry such a load."

Mr. Aberhart said he refused to answer when asked if conditions in Canada would be worse when the war was over.

"I have my ideas about it but they are not now for publication," said the premier. "I will say this however. If we—I mean all our people—do not make some definite preparation for that time we shall find ourselves totally unprepared to cope with the situation and shall face a crisis that may be heart-breaking. It is high time definite planning is done. We need to get together, all of us. The type of country and our respect for British principles should urge us on, if not our own self-preservation.

WAR UNPREPARED

"I have become tired of urging the people the pyramiding of our country's debt is nothing short of idiocy, and of the devilish-care policy that will get us nowhere. If we had been allowed to demonstrate the issuance of interest-free credit three years ago we could have had definite and scientific knowledge about it by this time. But there you are. We stand and wait for the coming storm unprepared."

BAD NEWS IS NOTHING NEW IN WARFARE

NEW YORK, May 20.—"Cheer up! We've heard bad news before."

In big type across a four-column front page spread, the New York Post thus cheered anxious New Yorkers Saturday as war news from the western front told of the German advance.

The caption was above pictures of the Post's war extras issued in August, 1914. The headlines ran:

"German army passing the Meuse in Belgium and concentrating"; "Belgian army has fallen back"; "French army said to be broken."

But the picture of the Post's war edition of Nov. 11, 1918, carried this banner line:

"Germany surrenders."

Fleeing Refugees Stream To French Interior While Army Battles Germans

By TAYLOR HENRY
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, May 20—Fleeing crowds of refugees from Belgium and France are streaming toward the interior while the French army meets the trip-hammer blows of the invading German shock forces.

I have just returned to Paris from week's stay along the sector of the front where the fighting is now heaviest.

The fighting has been terrific, like nothing before in history. A French officer who fought in the last war told me: "There can be no comparison between that battle and the worst ones of the last war. Two hours of this is worse than two days of the last war."

DIVED AT BY PLANE

As P. J. Philip of the New York Times and I were setting out early yesterday morning for Paris on bicycles, the only available means of transportation, a German plane dive-bombed behind us.

It loosed five bombs on railroad tracks. We were within 40 yards. We threw ourselves flat again a wall amidst a shower of bricks and glass and then raced to a shelter to avoid the plane's spraying machine-gun bullets as it returned.

Again the planes attacked. They were bigger bombs this time. The force of the explosion knocked me off the bicycle ripping the back wheel to pieces. A French major who slept in the hotel room next to mine the night before was among those killed.

Screams of the wounded after the bombing were ghastly. One woman with arteries severed in both legs was holding a small baby in her arms. An old man hobbled around trying to stop the flow of blood spurting from the stump of his arm. A child huddled in the corner of the station kept wailing "Mama."

PLANES EVERYWHERE

I prevailed on a terror-stricken boy on a bicycle to repair my wheel. Philip and I started out again for Paris.

From every hill unbroken columns of refugees could be seen winding down to the main highway. Nazi planes were flying everywhere singly and in squadrons up to 36. Time and time again we ducked from our bicycles and flopped in the ditches alongside the roads to hide.

Town criers went through villages ringing great bells and warning everyone to be on the move within an hour. Methodically the peasants closed their homes, loaded their belongings on push-carts, in old trucks and in great two-wheeled farm chariots drawn by from four to eight farm horses. What was left they strapped to their backs and with scarcely a look behind started on the same trek that all but the very young had made in 1914.

100,000 War Vets For Home Defence

TORONTO, May 20.—More than 100,000 war veterans could be put on home defence service against "Fifth Columnists" on 24 hours' notice, Secretary L. R. Menzies of the Canadian Legion said Saturday.

DESTROYER IS DAMAGED BY NAZI BOMBS

LONDON, May 20.—The destroyer Whitley was damaged by bombs and subsequently beached, the admiralty announced today.

The Admiralty communique said:

"The secretary of the admiralty regrets to announce that one of our destroyers, H.M.S. Whitley, has been damaged by bombs and was subsequently beached.

"There were four casualties and the next of kin have been informed."

The Whitley, a vessel of 1,000 tons, was launched in April, 1918, and was re-armed in 1938-39 as an escort ship.

A ship of the Whitley type normally would carry a crew of around 130.

San Franciscan Holding Lead In Typos' Election

INDIANAPOLIS, May 20—Unofficial returns from 625 of the International Typographical Union's 630 locals in the biennial election were made public Saturday.

They showed President Claude M. Baker of San Francisco leading Hugh C. Starrett of New York 27,934 to 26,680.

In the battle for second vice-president, Thomas Holland of Vancouver, B.C., was running behind Don F. Hurd, Oakland City, Calif., Progressive, by 22,464 votes to 22,818.

The Machine Casualties

In this war of machinery the "big battalions" maxim no longer holds. The balance of power rests with the side having the most and best fighting machines, not the one having the most men. A tank or an air bomber may be roughly assessed, for purposes of illustration, as being a match for a hundred men on foot armed with rifles only. Infantry without these allies is fatally handicapped.

After a "careful study of all sources of information" the air ministry at London announces that 1,000 German airplanes were destroyed from the invasion of Holland to the end of last week, while Allied losses were only a "small fraction." The French say half of the whole number of enemy tanks have been used in the offensive and that there is reason to think these gasoline-consuming monsters are getting too far away from their supply bases for sustained action, while great numbers of them have been wrecked.

On balance it is certain the enemy has lost far more of each type of machine than the Allies, and almost certain that he has lost more than his factories produced in the 10 days. It may be that German factories could turn out a thousand planes in that time. but it is doubtful. That five hundred tanks are being built in Germany in ten days is still more doubtful.

If the Allies are making full use of their resources for construction and purchase, they have more planes and more tanks now than they had when the offensive started.

An Edmonton Centenary

One hundred years ago the first minister of the Gospel to make his home at Edmonton, or in this part of the west, arrived here. Visits had been made in previous years by missionaries passing through the country. Rev. Robert Terrill Rundle came to Edmonton in 1840 and resided here until 1848. He was a Wesleyan Methodist, brought out and maintained by the Hudson's Bay Company, resided in the fort, and did double duty as chaplain to the staff of the trading post and missionary to the Indians.

The memory of Rundle is preserved in the name of the famous mountain at Banff, inappropriately so in a way, because the mountain was located on the very fringe of his parish, and Bow Fort was probably the nearest place of human abode. But this is not to suggest that his parish was unduly circumscribed, for it extended from Prince Albert to where Banff now is, and from Lesser Slave Lake to the South Saskatchewan river.

The centenary of Rundle's arrival is to be marked this week by appropriate ceremonies, under the auspices of the United Church and the Hudson's Bay Company, and with the co-operation of many other organizations and of private citizens. The celebration will culminate on Friday, Empire Day, when a pageant entitled "A Shining Century" will be presented at Victoria Park, near the spot where the pioneer missionary landed to take up his residence in the Old Fort.

Home Defence Units

The idea seems to be nation-wide, and is strongly urged, that Canada should have some type of home defence units in the centres of population, composed of volunteer members serving without pay, and having arms available to them for use in case of emergency of any kind. This of course is the outcome of the disclosure of activities of Nazi agents and "fifth columns" in Allied and neutral countries in Europe.

Under command of cool-headed and responsible officers, there can be no doubt such organizations would be reassuring to those of the public who are inclined to be nervous, and a restraining influence upon any evil-disposed persons who may entertain notions of committing sabotage or interfering with the carrying on of the country's war effort. Excellent material for these corps would of course be found in the ranks of veterans of the last war, whose readiness to serve is very evident.

The home defence units would, it is to be supposed, act in full co-operation with the police, whose business it is to enforce war-time regulations; and would constitute organized reserves ready to hand upon whom the police could call if assistance were needed in handling any situation of unusual difficulty.

Home defence bodies were organized in nearly every considerable town during the last war. If their active services were seldom if ever called for, that was perhaps in part just because they were known to exist. It may be that such forces are not and will not be actually required to preserve peace and order. But at least their presence would help to steady public emotions in periods of stress and strain.

A Call To Arm

In asking Congress to appropriate an additional sum of $1,182,000,000 for defence expenditure next year, President Roosevelt left no doubt as to the quarter from which "dangers confront the United States". He did not need to name the source of the menace. His language, and the recent course of events, identify the countries he had in mind as being Nazi Germany and its axis-partners. From no other country or combination of countries is there any threat or possibility of threat to "force every neutral nation to look to its defences."

"Mechanized armies, parachute troops, bombing attacks" is a phrase that summarizes the raid on Holland and Belgium. Its use shows how this latest outrage has brought home to the President and his advisers the reality of the "dangers" to his country and to this hemisphere. No one has sketched that reality in so impressive terms as those in which he emphasized that the defences of yesterday are not defences today, because of the frightful development of the mechanism and art of air attack.

Canadians who heard or who read the President's words will understand why their own Government is spending $600,-000,000 in an air training scheme, Imperial in its general scope, but not the less designed primarily for the defence of this Dominion. Canada shares to the full the dangers which Hitler and his allies have created for the United States.

Besides modernized equipment for the army and navy, Mr. Roosevelt wants 50,000 military and naval airplanes for the United States air forces. It is no less significant that he wants these built without cutting down the delivery of planes to the Allies. And even more significant that he wants manufacturing facilities so expanded that this great number of planes can be turned out in a single year—a four-fold increase of the present production capacity of the country.

There is no doubt that Congress will vote the money and credits asked for. Statements from members of both parties make that quite certain, and indicate that the assault on the Low Countries has made plain to our neighbors, as no previous outrage did, the purpose of the totalitarians to bring under their control "every human being and every mile of the surface of the earth".

It will be noted that scheduled football games are being played in the Old Lands. Two inferences seem clear. That the public there are not jittery. And that the authorities do not consider an air blitzkrieg imminent, since crowds are allowed to gather in the open spaces in broad daylight.

Story of Two Women

In a New York city court a magistrate had just committed a taxi-driver to jail for 30 days for leaving the scene of an accident—he had run over and killed a pedestrian. A woman approached the magistrate and pleaded for the prisoner, her husband. "Don't send him to jail," she said. "My two children and I are dependent on his earnings."

As she finished another woman stood up, this time in the spectators' seats, and identified herself as the widow of the man who was killed. "She's only going to lose her husband for 30 days," this woman observed bitterly, "but I have lost mine for the rest of my life." The sentence stood at 30 days.

It was a dramatic demonstration of a point which sometimes is forgotten. The victim of a careless driver is buried and his troubles are over. By the time the person who caused the accident comes for trial—if he does—often the feeling is that to punish him can't help the dead and why not be merciful!

We are apt to forget that somewhere, because of a driver's carelessness, a widow and her children may face poverty, the children condemned to a broken home, perhaps to the loss of the education that was their right and the chance for a better life than their father had known. All that may be involved in a moment of carelessness at the wheel of a car.—Ottawa Journal.

A Few War Costs

A single torpedo costs $10,000.
A rifle and bayonet cost $30.

Those are just a couple of items in the cost of running a war. They show why it takes millions of dollars per day to equip an army, put it in the field and keep it in fighting trim.

Ordinary field guns like 18-pounders cost around $6,800 each. The bigger guns cost more, according to the weight of the projectile and the range. Naval larger guns run to $300,000 apiece. That means only five of this type could be had for a million dollars.

A light tank will cost around $5,000 with the heavier tanks running the price up to near the $50,000 mark.

A heavy shell will cost about $240. And, really heavy projectiles, such as those hurled from large naval guns, cost from $8,000 to $10,-000 each.

A single gun can shoot away $100,000 worth of shells in a few hours of intense barrage firing.

The smaller fighting airplanes run around $30,000 each, with the big bombers costing $200,000 apiece or more.

Training a fighter pilot costs $10,000.

Those are just a few of the costs involved in fighting a war. They don't begin to cover all the various expenses that have to be paid out every minute of the time. But, they give an inkling of why it is wars eat up dollars with such a voracious appetite.—Windsor, Ont., Star.

"Shocked and Angered

President Roosevelt's address to the eighth American Scientific Congress in Washington was significant for its simplicity and honesty. It is good to know that peoples in all parts of the world were able to hear it as it came through the air. Its message was only a warning to the totalitarians, a veiled suggestion,to those states in Europe which so far have not felt the heel of the invader, it also was a reminder to the American people themselves that, in terms of modern invention, the distance between the Western Hemisphere and troubled and warring Europe is less than that covered by the "chariots of Alexander" rolling from Macedonia to Persia, or the "ships and legions of Caesar" moving "from Ostia to Spain or Britain."

No part of Mr. Roosevelt's address could be taken as a threat to anybody. He merely fitted the realities of these times to the possibilities and probabilities of the future; and if in the days to come there should be an attempt to impose on "the Americas" a way of life similar to that which the brutalitarians have fashioned for themselves—and seek to fasten on others—he believed that the peoples of the Western Hemisphere would "unite to protect and defend by every means our science, our culture, our freedom and our civilization." Because of this conviction, therefore, the President said he was "glad that we are shocked and angered by the tragic news" from the three states now bathing for their lives against Hitler's minions. It is not necessary to elaborate the implications of the moving sentiments to which Mr. Roosevelt gave such emphatic expression.—Victoria Daily Times.

Finnish Reconstruction

The task of national reconstruction that faced the Finnish people on the conclusion of peace with Russia is in many respects more difficult and disheartening than the defense against the invader. One-eighth of the population had lost everything it had owned. The nation had been deprived of one-tenth of its arable land and industrial plant. The total cost of the war was placed at $600,000,000, an extremely large sum for a country by no means rich and with a population of less than four millions; a comparable burden for the United States would reach forty to fifty billions of dollars.

Such reports as have come out of the country indicate that the nation is tackling the less inspiring problems of peace with the same courage with which it resisted the enemy. The program announced by the reconstituted peacetime government includes the resettlement of the exiles from Karelia on new farms to be created out of private estates and government and church lands. The development of the country's natural, agricultural and industrial resources is to be intensified, with or without the help of foreign loans. The scarcity of goods of all sorts has raised difficult problems, especially in keeping prices from rising unduly, but with these problems the government has been endeavoring to cope by co-operative efforts where possible, and by government action where necessary.

Finally, the costs of the struggle with Russia and the ensuing peace are to be liquidated as quickly as possible by means of a capital levy. The underlying principle is the joint sharing by the whole nation of the losses of its members, to be accomplished by a "non-recurring contribution from those whose property has been largely preserved." This levy is not expected to exceed 10 per cent of the total value of private property. By thus wiping out a large part of the government's reconstruction debt it is hoped to spare later generations from back-breaking taxation.—New York Times.

The Passing Show

By J. B. COWPER

It took war to make Nazi Germany find a use for religion. Five clerically attired gentlemen in an auto speeding along a road in Belgium proved to be members of the Nazi "fifth column" on their way to shoot their hosts from behind. Dutch, Belgium or clerical disguise, it's all the same to the Nazis when it serves their purpose.

PROPAGANDA BY AN EXPERT

On Deutschland uber alles. Nazi lack of imagination is shown by the absence of variety of excuse for invading neutral countries. Czechoslovakia was raided because it was "a dagger pointed at the heart of Germany." Poland, Norway, Denmark and Holland were attacked without warning because they were all supposed to be plotting against Germany. If Sweden is attacked the same excuse will be given.

All this is probably meant as propaganda for the German people—not in any expectation of salving the Nazi conscience, for there is no such thing. Hitler discussing the uses of propaganda in Mein Kampf puts it clearly when he wrote:

"Propaganda is only another weapon, if a truly fearful one, in the hands of an expert. . . . The slighter its scientific ballast, and the more exclusively it considers the emotions of the masses, the more complete its success. . . . It must not objectively explore any truth that favors the other side."

In other words, the greater the lie, the better its chance of being believed by the trusting German people.

BLUFF AND COUNTERBLUFF

Another man who seems to have given himself away in writing a book is Ely Culbertson, the bridge expert. An expert, of course, is only an expert in his own line. Sir Oliver Lodge, for instance, is an expert in the field of electricity. His opinion on spooks may be no better than yours or mine. Mr. Culbertson, wizard at bridge, might well have applied himself of a newspaper deskman when he wrote his chapter on "Bluff and Counterbluff" in his recent autobiography, "The Strange Lives of One Man."

In it he used an illustration of his own smartness in a business deal with one Theodore W. Herbst, a New York manufacturer of playing cards who bought from Culbertson his indestructible card manufacturing company.

After reading the chapter on "Bluff and Counterbluff" in his recent autobiography, "The to enter suit against Culbertson for $400,000, alleging that the statements contained in the chapter showed Culbertson had "conspired in perpetrating a fraud" upon him.

If Mr. Culbertson can tear himself away from the bridge table to indulge in ancient literature, he will read about a certain upright man in the land of Uz, named Job, who from the depths of his troubles lamented, "O that mine adversary had written a book!"

BATH DE LUXE IN SWEDEN

If Hitler wants a valid reason for invading Sweden, he might charge that the Swedes have affronted him by being so cleanly a people. Any man who has ordered a bath in a hotel in Sweden will know what I mean. I recall in the days of my youth, when I did some foot-racing, the shock to his nerves of my friend Paul Waring. He went to the Olympic games at Athens as England's quarter-miler, and found that a washerwoman was delegated to accompany him to aid in the bathing.

His version came back to me last night in bedswitha reading Kipling's post-humous autobiography, "Something of Myself." He tells of the indignant complaint of a Swedish lady at a Swedish resort telling the troubles of her maid in seeking to aid an English visitor.

Here is the finale: "And then she—the old woman comed—came in to wash that man. But he was angered—angry. He wented—he went dee-ep into the water and he say-ed—said—'Go away!' And she sayed, 'But I comm to wash you, sare.' And she made to do that. But he tur-ned over upon his fa-ce, and waved his legs in the airs and he say-ed 'Go a-dam-way away!' So she went to the Direktor and she say-ed: 'Comm he-ere. There are a mads in my bath, which will not let me wash him.' But the Direktor say-ed to her, 'Oh, that are not a mads. That are an Englishman. He will himself—he will wash himself."

Cleanliness is next to godliness, says scripture, and Hitlerism has no truck with godliness.

RATED

Perhaps I should be ashamed to confess the fact; but sometimes, in travelling amidst sublime scenery, I become rated. I cannot stand any more. My poor mind has reached its limits of comprehension and appreciation.

Recently, Milady and I drove to the famous Longwood Gardens, near Philadelphia, where there is such a varied display of flowers as fairly takes one's breath away. Flowers known and unknown, from exotic orchids to humble lilies of the valley, were artistically displayed in gorgeous profusion.

Fairly intoxicated by all this beauty, and incapable of another sensation, I went out on a terrace to sit and muse upon our own little garden, where I know every plant, and Milady, insatiable, went off to see the display of tulips, pansies, flowering cherries and evergreens.

All of life's delights may pall—except the joys of spiritual communion with Him who is our life.

Ever feeding and drinking of Thee, and ever hungry and thirsty, we pray that more and more of Thy reality may be given unto us. Amen.

McCoy Health Service

"That tired feeling" is a very common complaint.

Continual tiredness is unnatural and there is no reason for you to continue to get up tired in the morning, to feel tired in the middle of the afternoon, or to feel exhausted at the end of the day. Persistent tiredness often comes from habits of living which are not good, and is capable of being banished when these are changed to better ones.

A certain amount of healthy physical fatigue is to be expected if you have been actively using the muscles, but the habit of being tired most of the time is abnormal and frequently precedes some actual disease. If you feel tired, then by all means start now to make a treatment which will put you back on your feet.

The tired person wants to rest, and in fact, craves rest more than the average individual. However, those who try to get over that tired feeling by resting, generally end up by becoming more tired than ever.

Along with the tired feeling the patient may experience a mood of mental depression. He may have a headache or may note that the legs tremble, or that it is an effort to lift the arms. If he tries to concentrate on a task requiring close concentration, he may say that the head throbs. When he tries to do physical work, he feels "played out" or his muscles feel weak.

Sometimes the patient makes the remark that he is so tired he wants to go to bed and stay there for a month.

The two main causes of tiring too soon are over-eating and under-exercising. The way to replace tiredness with an abundance of strength is to eat less and exercise more. In starting to exercise, begin gradually, keeping within the limits of your strength. Be sure to balance the exercise period with a period of rest. When you have spent a certain amount of time exercising, then spend an equal amount resting.

Also, cut down on your consumption of the so-called heavy foods. If, after eating a full meal, you feel sluggish and dull, then eat half as much heavy food the next time, and use more of the salads and cooked vegetables to make up the difference.

At the same time you begin your regimen of exercising more and eating carefully, learn how to stop wasting energy through destructive thinking. When a negative thought comes into your mind, think of it as causing a leakage of energy, and immediately replace it with a positive thought of a more cheerful nature.

Persistent tiredness may be due to anemia or to a lack of vitamin B in the diet, but as a general rule, it is likely to be due to the two causes already listed. Keep up your attempt to eat correctly, exercise sensibly, and think constructively, and you will probably banish tiredness.

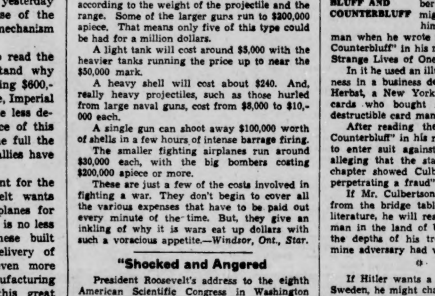

An article on "That Tired Feeling" should give you positive encouragement in your search for more strength. You may obtain this by writing to the McCoy Health Service, enclosing a large, self-addressed envelope and 4c in stamps.

Address all letters to The McCoy Health Service, The McCoy Building, 1151 South 8th Street, Los Angeles, California.

McKenney On Bridge

By WM. E. McKENNEY, America's Card Authority

One of the finest card players it has ever been my pleasure to meet is R. E. Richards of Detroit, founder and first president of the American Bridge League. Richards has one of those quick minds that can figure percentages almost instantaneously. In addition, he is a good psychologist. During the past 10 years I have presented many of Richards' hands, and he has just sent me one that I have not seen before, and which I think you will enjoy.

Opening—♥Q. 27

The hand is a splendid example of counting, and Mr. McKenney explains, if you want to improve your bridge game, you should learn to count the distribution. To be able to count a hand down is often the only solution.

West's opening lead was won by declarer with the ace, and now he had his first count. West had seven hearts.

Declarer cashed four rounds of clubs. West discarding a heart on the fourth club. Then two high spades were cashed by declarer, West showing out on the second and discarding another heart.

By this time declarer had a perfect count on the West hand—the original hand contained one spade, seven hearts, two diamonds and three clubs. At this point Richards made the unusual play. He must develop a squeeze on the East hand, so cashed the small heart and allowed West to win. East must make his first embarrassing discard.

West elected to return the jack of diamonds, declarer won with the ace and led a heart, which was won in dummy with the king. Now East is squeezed. If he discards a diamond, declarer's six of diamonds will be established; while if he gives up a spade, dummy will make the six of spades.

After an hour of this he ended with "E" which he said stood for the efficiency of a graduate.

On The Record

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

The 1940 Elections

PARIS, May 20. — (By wireless and airmail)—I write this article as a battle rages in Belgium, on the border between Belgium and France and all along the French-German front, the greatest battle between men and materials and conflicting ideas that has yet been fought in human history. It is a battle involving millions of men and the accumulated wealth of great nations. Whatever its final results, it will be a turning point in the history of the world.

Meanwhile, in America, we are getting ready to hold two party conventions, in which we will nominate candidates for the presidency. From now until next November there will be, in the usual order of things, debates, party divisions and a spectacle presented to the rest of the world of internal disunity.

That fact has played a part in the selection by the Nazis of this spring and summer as the time to drive for a decision in the war. There is not the slightest question about this. The Nazis timed to strike when the United States was immobilized—politically immobilized.

The gravity of this hour cannot possibly be overrated. It must be said bluntly that it is by no means certain that Britain and France will win this war; it is by no means certain that the blows delivered, as they are being delivered, by forces greatly superior in numbers, airplanes and ruthlessness, having the advantage of strategical positions gained by the occupation without warning of five neutral countries — Denmark, Norway, Luxemburg, Holland and Belgium—will not be successful, and successful in quick order.

Five years ago the democracies were in an overwhelmingly superior position vis-a-vis Germany. They had that position not in a moment but from week to week and from year to year. Nobody deprived them of that position. They gave it away because of complacency, overconfidence and unwillingness to face the facts. And now it has brought on the disaster of the war.

In a crisis like this one free men do not save themselves by feeling that they are committed, as by some fate, to a traditional pattern of behavior. They save themselves by asking lucidly, "What is the very worst thing that we could do?" and then doing it with courage and decision.

It is not wise to employ this summer and fall in a heated political campaign between two parties. It is not wise to make any change in the presidency or in the departments of state. The common sense of the American man in the street tells him this. The foreign policy of the United States will be during the next four years decisive for the whole American continent.

Although there have been many differences between the president and the Republicans on matters of domestic policy — these differences, except for the die-hards, being primarily differences regarding method — there are no essential differences in regard to foreign policy. Differences are being deliberately trumped up in order to furnish campaign material.

The President's handling of the foreign affairs of the United States has been masterly. It has been the only masterly handling of affairs by any democratic statesman of a large power.

Along among all the leaders of the three great free nations the president of the United States has from the first faced and grasped the whole bitter reality.

Alone among the heads of democratic states the president has been correctly informed, firstly by a secretary of state who has great political sagacity and honorable common sense; secondly, by a diplomatic service superior in intelligence and liveliness to the British and the French; third, by a press which has done voluminous and energetic reporting, and fourth, and perhaps most importantly, by his own imagination—by the intuition of his extreme sensibility.

The president has been right. He foresaw what has happened, when people were branding him a calamity howler. He has been thinking ahead of events while the rest of the democratic world has been thinking one lap behind them.

In the democratic world he is a figure of immense proportions. The fall of Roosevelt in America would be worse for the cause of democracy and freedom than the Nazi occupation of Switzerland. I say that with weighed words, after traveling over a great deal of Europe.

It is not only that Mr. Roosevelt has for the democratic world a magic that that world sorely needs, but a change in administration now would inevitably break the continuity of a policy, or, if it did not, would create for weeks and months the fear that it might—and fear in this moment would have the same effect as reality.

Furthermore, every recriminatory debate on that policy would be picked up and used for purposes no Americans desire. There are times when it is good for the citizens of nations to disagree. There are other times when it is necessary to close the ranks, to discipline antagonisms, voluntarily to create that unity which tyranny can force. These are eras in which democracies deliberately, and eras when the metronome ticks off destiny with the rapidity of machine-gun fire. We are in such an era.

The Republican party has a great history behind it. In the two greatest crises of American history in the critical years between the end of the Revolutionary War and the adoption of the constitution, and in the ghastly years of the Civil War, the makers of American destiny were Republicans. Hamilton, who more than any other man secured the adoption of the constitution, may justly be called the first Republican, although the party of that name did not yet exist, and its proudest name is Lincoln's.

The Republican party is properly called traditionalist, but its great moments were when it broke the traditions.

The constitution founded the republic. Lincoln—no traditionalist—saved it.

The greatest thing, it seems to me, that the Republican party could do now for the nation it has served so often and so magnificently would be to announce, as quickly as possible, that if the president will accept a third term it will offer no obstacle in opposition to him, and will offer, instead, only a vice-presidential candidate.

Every effort to break the tradition once again, in the interest of the nation, it might look elsewhere than in the traditional party for a vice-presidential candidate, and nominate for vice-president, Wendell Willkie, one of the ablest citizens, a man who thoroughly represents the most enlightened and progressive Republicanism. The fact that he is a Democrat would be of no importance whatsoever to do with the fundamental structure of our democracy.

It would be large-minded of the Republican party to do this, but the Republicans may well remember that they governed America best and longest when they were most large-minded.

At any rate — and from Paris, where one sees events moving with the swiftness of a motorized battalion—it is impossible to think of one's self as a Republican or a Democrat, or a Socialist or a New Dealer. One thinks of one's self only as a citizen of the land of the free and the home of the brave.

Outwitted Spies

CARL ALBIN, above, Swiss chemist brought to the United States by an oil company to perfect his formula for leadless high test gasoline, was attacked in his laboratory on Monday by two German-speaking men. At first overpowered, he managed to prevent the men leaving with his secret documents and in desperation hurled a half-gallon container of sulphuric acid at his assailants who fled.

Allies Will Get New-Type Bombing Planes In States

BALTIMORE, May 20—Glenn L. Martin, president of the Baltimore airplane company bearing his name, said Saturday night that specifications for a new type bombing plane had been completed and that the Anglo-French purchasing commission had agreed to take every one that could be turned out in the next 18 months. Details were not announced.

PROVINCIAL BRIEFS

Grande Prairie Music Festival Marked Success

GRANDE PRAIRIE

The eighth annual Grande Prairie and district musical festival which was held on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday was an outstanding success. There were 268 entries and competition was keen in all classes, rural schools taking a greater part in the festival than ever.

The adjudicators, Mrs. E. H. Gowan, elocution and dramatics; Mrs. J. Russell Love, dancing, and G. A. Kevan, music, all of Edmonton, were highly popular with winners and losers alike.

The best work in music was the concert of senior vocal and instrumental solos, duets and quartettes, which the adjudicator believed were easily of city standard. In this division, Ethel Gudlaugson's Chatterbox piano solos won the award for the most artistic performance in music in the festival, the Mona Cooke Memorial cup.

PLAY IS HIGHLIGHT

One of the highlights of the festival was the open one-act play, "Thread of Scarlet," presented by the Christ church A.Y.P.A., Grande Prairie. This offering won the Oke cup.

The second one-act play, Peace Flies, by the Sexsmith Dramatic Club, also was good. Outstanding was the performance of Stanley Hudson in the lovely role and fine characterization of the farmer won for him the CFGP trophy for the best male portrayal, with special reference to diction.

The Henry Birks cup for church choirs was won by the Grande Prairie United church double quartet who have won it for three years in succession.

St. Joseph's Junior church choir again captured the I.O.D.E. cup which they have held against all competitors since 1933.

JUNIORS WIN

The Montrose school, grade 3, defeated grade 6 of the same school to win the Robert Simpson cup for grade 6 school one-act plays. Their play, "The Network People," was delightful and the characters perfectly cast, even to the monkey who stole the show.

Mollie Wood won the Lanctot cup for rural school plays. St. Joseph's school won the Frank Oyend cup for their one-act high school play.

Spicer cup for open folk dancing was captured by Jessie Johnson of Rycroft. Campbell, Wilson and Horne shield for senior folk dancing, for Grande Prairie, Clarke Simpson shield for junior folk dancing won by Sexsmith also. The Tooley cup for open school choruses was won by the Grande Prairie high school.

Clairmont Lake school won the two-voice school chorus award, the Grande Prairie Herald shield. Royal Banner school captured the Sexsmith school trophy, the Hugh Allen shield.

HIGH SCHOOL CHORUS

St. Joseph's school won the high school chorus, one of the oldest Grande Prairie shield. The junior division, girls only, won by Montrose school. Northern Lights Pipestone school. The Mrs. E. V. Sergin shield, won by Montrose school. In the boys' division choruses, the Hedman-Miller shield was won by Clairmont school.

Winners in elocution, which showed a improvement over previous years were: Grades 1, 2, 3, (The Rain), first, Helen Lagerquist, Grade 3, Rycroft; Jean Macdonald, Grades 4, 5, 6 (Prairie Pan Dun) first, Verona Reed; second, Shirley Boucher; third, Marie Gorman. Grade 5, 6 (The Good Samaritan), first, Georgina Boucher; second, Mary Stelzig; third, Dora Cordrey. Grades 7, 8, 9 (Gentlemen, the King!), first, Marjorie Smith; second, Jean Fraser Smith.

GRAND CONCERT

The grand concert of winners was held on Thursday night. Dr. J. O'Brien, M. L. A. presented the trophies and complimented the competitors on their fine showing and encouraged them to go further in the future. Mrs. Gowan, Mrs. Love and Mr. Green, adjudicators, spoke of the pleasure in attending this festival and finding such artistic performance. "I enjoyed every minute of it; they all said," and hope to soon come again."

Fairview Music Festival Heats 287 Competitors

FAIRVIEW

Fairview's fourth annual two-day musical festival was held last week, with 287 entries from 23 schools, in the United church and the Gem theatre, with the grand concert of the winners in the Gem theatre.

The one-act play given by the one-room school of Bluesky was the most outstanding event of the festival and was awarded the Legion "merit trophy."

Farmer Killed As Team Bolts On Seed Drill

VERMILION

News reached here of the death of Camille Fetas of the Agremount district, whose death was caused through an accident. Mr. Fetas had his team hitched to a drill with a wagon of wheat hitched behind the drill, when the team became frightened and ran away. Mr. Fetas, who was seated on the drill, fell off and the wagon of grain passed over his chest. He died almost instantly.

He was one of the old timers of the district, coming from France with his parents in 1904, and has lived in the district ever since. He was 60 years of age. He leaves a wife, one son, Charles, and one daughter, Marie; one sister, of the Galahad district, and two brothers, of the Agremont district.

A large crowd of the last rites were held at the stockyards on Wednesday. The calves were in good condition, although there were not as many entries as last year. The judges were A. Charnetski, B. I. Dorosh and Martin Prystai. The prize winners were as follows: 1, Leo Nichols; 2, Chris Thumlert; 3, Laura Nichols; 4, Buddy Nichols; 5, Estes Thumlert; 6, Frankes Hummel; 7, Jim Knaresboro; 8, Clarence Hummel. The baby beef were trucked to Calgary for Thursday's market.

A special meeting of Progress M.D. was held on Friday for the purpose of accepting or rejecting some 20 parcels of land owned by the M.D. of Progress No. 83, which had been recently advertised for sale. All bids were accepted but one, and sales will have to have the approval of municipal department at Edmonton.

STETTLER

The Stettler board of trade entertained the soldiers home on leave in the I.O.O.F. hall recently. H. Witherspoon took the chair, vocal solos were given by Adam Edgar and W. Carder, and piano solos were rendered by Mrs. J. Ellis.

The speeches of the evening were given by Mayor T. J. Kirby, D. M. Gardiner, D. R. McIver, A. E. O'Brien, and C. L. Willis, while Corporal Larsen spoke on behalf of the soldiers.

The soldiers present were: Corp. Larsen, Lance Corp. James Hall, Lance Corp. Lyman Slifka, John Graham, Bill Boyd, Frank Hall, Jack Horne, Ivan McCallum, Vic Andrews, James Gibbons, George Ramsay, Jack Hamilton, Ernie Charles Setter, Rodney Setter, Barney Pellowe and W. Pellowe. All these were members of the Calgary Stettler Regiment.

BASHAW

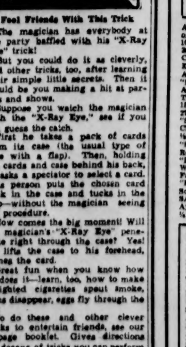

A meeting was held in the Pool elevator last week to organize a junior grain club, with Mr. Pharlensky of Stettler, district agricultural representative, installing members who were elected as follows:

President, Bill Puffer; honorary president, Mrs. Willcox; vice-president, Alvin Spelrem; secretary, Frank Willcox.

L. Wilson, assistant secretary of the Municipal District of Lakeside for several years, was appointed secretary of the municipality of Bashaw. He succeeds J. A. Marshall, recently elected to the House of Commons.

You See All! Know All! By "X-Ray Eye" Magic

Fool Friends With This Trick.

The magician has everybody at the party baffled with his "X-Ray Eye" trick!

And you could do it as cleverly, and other tricks, too, after learning their simple little secrets. Then it would be you making a hit at parties and shows.

Suppose you watch the magician with the "X-Ray Eye," see if you can get the trick.

First he takes a pack of cards from its case (the usual type of case with a flap). Then, holding the cards and case behind his back, he asks a spectator to select a card. The person puts the chosen card back in the case and tucks in the flap—without the magician seeing the procedure.

Now comes the big moment! Will the magician's "X-Ray Eye" penetrate right through the case? Yes! He lifts the case to his forehead, names the card.

Great fun when you know how he does it—learn, too, how to make undignified cigarettes spout smoke, coins disappear, eggs fly through the air!

To do these and other clever tricks to entertain friends, see our 32-page booklet. Gives directions for dozens of tricks you can perform with simplest paraphernalia such as matches, glasses.

Send 18c in coins for your copy of "Professional Tricks for Amateur Magicians" to The Edmonton Bulletin, Home Service, Edmonton, Alta. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of the booklet.

Please allow a week or ten days for delivery.

Vera Nichols Is Bride Of Mr. J. Eley

ST. FAITH'S Anglican Church was the scene of a pretty wedding ceremony at the early evening hour of half past seven o'clock on Saturday when Miss Jennie May Wilkinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hale of this city became the bride of Mr. Clarence B. Sutherland, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Sutherland of Morningside, Alberta.

Canon Capi. C. F. A. Clough officiated at the ceremony and ushering the guests to their places were Mr. Leslie Bradley and Mr. Kenneth Brown.

Wearing for the occasion of her marriage, a dainty frock of white sheer chiffon over satin, made on graceful lines with full, bishop sleeves, high neckline, softly tailored bodice and skirt, the bride was a pretty figure.

A shoulder veil of white falling gracefully to the waist at the back was held to her head with a halo of mixed pearls and orange blossoms, and her gloves and slippers were white. She carried for her flowers an arm bouquet of pink and white roses and carnations.

BRIDESMAID

Miss Mollie Pearce of Ardrossan, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid and was dressed for the wedding in a smart frock of organza, of white ground patterned with tiny mauve flowers. She wore a wide picture hat and accessories in tone and carried a bouquet of mauve iris and yellow daffodils.

Dr. Gordon Sutherland, brother of the bride, was best man.

Wedding music was provided by Mrs. Shillabeer.

A reception to forty wedding guests was arranged at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony. Receiving her guests, Mrs. Hale wore an afternoon frock in grape tones, dark blue accessories and corsage of carnations and sweet peas in shades of yellow and mauve.

Mrs. Sutherland, mother of the bridegroom, who received with the bridal party, wore a frock of black sheer over figured material, dark hat and accessories and corsage of yellow and pink carnations.

BRIDE'S TABLE

The bride's table was laid in lace and centred by the tiered wedding cake embedded in tulle decorated with flower petals. Two bowls of snap dragons at either end of the table added a note of color to the table and Capt. Clough proposed the toast to the bride.

On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Sutherland left by motor for Ponoka where they will reside. To travel Mrs. Sutherland chose a modish frock of dusty pink with smart hat to match. Her topcoat and gloves were grey and she carried her wedding bouquet.

All Saints' Is Setting For Wedding

All Saint's Pro-cathedral was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday evening, when Miss Evelyn Graham, Walker, daughter of Mrs. Walker became the bride of Mr. John Russell Simpson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Simpson of Edmonton. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Canon A. M. Trendall, at the evening hour of half-past seven o'clock.

Given in marriage by Mr. E. Ledgard, the bride wore a Queen's blue sheer wool frock with navy accessories, and a Breton sailor hat. Her corsage was of gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Miss Irene Kellaway, bridesmaid, wore an afternoon dress of dove rose with navy hat and accessories of navy. Her flowers were tea roses.

Mother of the bride, Mrs. Walker, wore a navy blue afternoon dress with matching hat and accessories, and a shoulder corsage of tea roses. Mrs. Arthur Simpson, mother of the bridegroom, wore a navy sheer dress, with a white hat and white accessories. Her corsage, also chose talisman roses and sweet peas.

Following the wedding ceremony, a reception to friends was held in the Masonic Temple, Mr. and Mrs. Simpson are making their home in Edmonton.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Babies who get enough to eat during the day time are not interested in night feeding. At two or three months of age most of them stop waking for night feedings.

I say this such a lot that it seems almost like a formula. But it is true, nevertheless. The important thing is the daytime menu. It isn't right, it isn't satisfying, when the baby has to be fed several times at night.

WON'T SLEEP

Mrs. J. M. has a seven-months-old daughter who will not go to sleep until midnight and then wakes several times after that to be fed.

"In addition to the nursing," writes her mother, "she gets two teaspoons of cod liver oil, the juice of an orange, half a can of strained baby vegetables and one tablespoonful of cereal daily. Sometimes, but not every day, she gets a soft-boiled egg.

"My husband says she doesn't get enough to eat. But the doctor told me my milk was all right. I never give her water as I was told that a nursing baby doesn't need this until July or August. But why does she stay awake so much at night? I can't seem to understand her behavior."

Even though your milk is of good quality it may be lacking in quantity after seven months. Babies can have water any time. If their formulas or breast feedings are generous they may not want water, but if these are inadequate they will piece out their fluid needs by drinking quantities of it.

I'd try a complimentary bottle after every nursing. Increase the amount of cereal. Give an egg yolk daily.

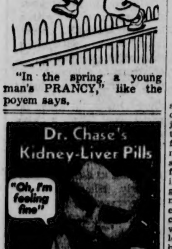

Nurse four times a day, but give no night nursings. Give the baby a drink of water if she awakens for it.

If she gets enough supplementary feedings to make up for the lack of breast milk, she should be in that delightfully sleepy mood which overwhelms the baby whose tummy is popping with satisfying rations. There is no other answer to the problem of night feedings except to enrich the daytime menu.

Our leaflet on "Complimentary Formulas" may be obtained for the usual self-addressed and three-cent stamped envelope sent to Myrtle Meyer Eldred care of the Your Baby and Mine department of this newspaper.

Myrtle Meyer Eldred will answer your questions about diet, general care and management of children if you will send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your letter to Mrs. Eldred of the Your Baby and Mine department in care of The Edmonton Bulletin.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills

"Oh, I'm feeling fine!"

For Backache Indigestion Kidney Disorders

Because animals grow long, shaggy hair when the weather gets cold in the autumn, people have jumped to the erroneous conclusion that human hair, likewise, grows faster in winter and slower in summer. The truth is just the opposite, say the scientists, who have found that human hair grows fastest in the summer. Likewise, the hair grows faster in the daytime than at night—in case it makes any difference to you. Other popular fallacies about hair are that singeing it will make it curl, that hairs are hollow and sap runs in them and that bald-headed men always sit on the front row of theatres.

Minute Make-Ups

Exposure to the sun may be already reddening or tanning your skin. The cosmetics you used in cold weather seldom go with warm weather complexions. Check your cosmetics to make sure they blend with your skin tones, especially at this change of the season.

REFRESH AWNINGS

If last year's awnings look faded and drab, they may be made bright again by painting the stripes with ordinary house paint.

QUICK DESSERT

An easy hurry-up dessert is made in a jiffy by spreading sponge layers with jelly and sprinkling plentifully with grated cocoanut.

Your Figure, Madame!

By IDA JEAN KAIN

All excess pounds represent stored calories. One ounce of body fat is the equivalent of 275 calories of food, taken over and above your requirements. The only way you can lose the excess is to cut your calorie intake down until it is slightly below your requirements.

There is no longer any trial and error connected with a good diet. It's simply a matter of calorie subtraction. If you cut your food intake by 500 calories per day—that is, below your maintenance requirements—you will lose three-fourths pound per week. With very little planning, the 500 calories can easily be omitted. You can do it by leaving off one slice of bread and one small pat of butter at each meal. Or you can get the same result by deleting the breakfast jam and the dinner dessert. Fats are high calorie counters and another easy way to cut calories is to avoid excess fats in any form.

TO LOSE WEIGHT

To lose more rapidly, you can decrease your maintenance allowance by your usual calorie allowance is 2,200 per day and you drop down to 1,100, you will lose around one and three-quarters pound a week.

You can plan your menus to suit yourself, but you must follow the basic principles of nutrition. When you subtract calories from your diet, make sure that you do not lessen the quality or quantity of the protein, minerals and vitamins. You must not overlook the fact that the protective elements are not stored with body fat and that they must be supplied every day if you are to keep your health.

You will get along all right if you have daily: a liberal serving of lean meat, one or two eggs, two glasses of skim milk or buttermilk or a serving of cheese in place of one of the glasses of milk, fresh fruits and vegetables, whole wheat bread, and a small amount of butter.

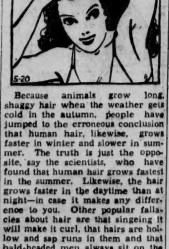

By following those few rules, you can make out your own reducing diet. You can't really call it one by 1,000 calories per day. If dieting . . . it's a plan by which you eat what you need for health and leave off the foods you do not need.

Dorothy Dix Says:

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am disgusted with my husband. He is forever going to beauty shops for permanent waves and to get his fingernails manicured and his eyebrows arched and so on. He wears a corset to improve his figure and his lingerie is finer than mine. He says that if it is good for women to beautify themselves, it is right for men to do so, too. What shall I do about it?

FAITHFUL READER.

Answer:

Nothing, unless it is to offer up thanks that you have a husband who is easy on the eyes instead of one who is unshaved and unshorn and unpressed and a pain in the neck to behold.

When married women take to the beauty shops and get synthetic roses painted on their cheeks where natural ones have faded, and have their straggly graying locks transformed into hennaed curls it is in order to keep their husbands vamped and to conceal the ravages of time.

Perhaps, since your husband is taking a leaf from woman's book on how to be glamorous though middle-aged, he is spending his money and his time in being prettified in order to retain your affection. And surely that must be a consoling thought to any wife.

Anyway, why look a gift horse in the mouth? Certainly you must admit that a man with nice fluted hair looks better than one with a shining bald pate, and that a slim, straight figure is more pleasing to contemplate than a paunchy one. So why not give husband a cheer instead of a knock when he tries to outwit Mother Nature?

Don't think it is slavish for a man to want to doll himself up. Don't forget that some of the bravest soldiers and the greatest statesmen the world has ever known used to wear curls and satins and laces and bedeck themselves with jewels.

QUIDDALS AND DALQUIDS

No matter how you stand one of these in the corner of a rectangular room, if any two sides are pushed flat against the adjacent walls, the third side lies flat on the floor. You know what this indicates, of course, about their shape.

Now here is the rest of the story:

A. A Quiddal is just one duff deep.

B. A Dalquid is just one plup deep.

C. The top of a Quiddal is one square plup.

D. The top of a Dalquid is one square duff.

If they both hold blumph, which holds murs?

Just how many times more does it hold?

Very well, then suppose you find a sixteen-letter word which describes the shape of each of them:

The word is:

(*) Are you quite positive about this?

Points For Parents

By EDYTH THOMAS WALLACE

Mother: "I'm going in the other room with my sewing, where it is quieter and pleasanter."

Mother: "Tell show you, young man, that no child of mine can act this way and get away with it."

When you think a child's disagreeable behavior is largely for the purpose of annoying you, why give him the satisfaction of knowing he has accomplished his purpose?

Oven Baked Beans Will Please Men's Appetites

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

Every June bride needs a "man's" cookbook—a collection of simple recipes guaranteed to keep her young husband well fed and well pleased. A great American chain of hotels reports that this recipe is one most frequently reordered by men guests.

OVEN BAKED BEANS AND EGG SALAD WITH OLD-FASHIONED BOILED DRESSING

Three-fourths quart baked beans, ½ pint diced celery, 3 eggs chopped, ¼ cup dill pickles, chopped, ¼ cup scallions, chopped, 1½ tablespoon parsley, chopped, 1 teaspoon salt. Garnish: 3 eggs, 1 head chicory, 1 or 2 sprigs water cress.

Combine all ingredients carefully so as not to mash the beans. Place in small salad bowl or oatmeal nappie. Use chicory as a garnish around the bowl. Place water cress and two sections of egg (quarters or eighths) around the salad. Serve hot dressing on the side.

OLD-FASHIONED BOILED DRESSING

One cup milk, 1½ tablespoons flour, ½ tablespoon mustard, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, ¼ cup vinegar, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 egg.

Scald three-fourths of milk. Measure and sift flour, salt and mustard together and make a smooth paste with remaining cold milk. Add to hot milk and cook thoroughly. Heat vinegar and add slowly to the dressing after it has thickened. Beat egg with sugar and add to dressing, stir while adding. Add butter.

Hill-billy recipes, too. From Jack White, chef of the Grove Park Inn in the Smoky mountains, comes this favorite of men:

Two cups white corn meal, 1 cup flour, 1 teaspoon salt, tablespoons lard, 1 tablespoon sugar, 3 eggs, 4 cups milk, 3 teaspoons baking powder.

Mix corn meal, flour, salt and baking powder and sift. Melt lard. Beat the eggs and mix with milk and sugar. Stir sifted dry ingredients into mixture of eggs, sugar and milk. Gradually pour in melted lard, stir and pour into greased baking pan and bake in moderate oven until done.

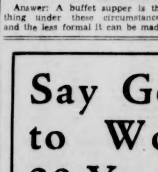

Tomorrow's Menu

Breakfast: Fresh pineapple, brown rice cereal, raisin toast, coffee, milk.

Luncheon: Oven baked beans and egg salad, hot, old-fashioned boiled dressing, stewed rhubarb and strawberries, cookies, tea, milk.

Dinner: Green peppers stuffed with ham and brown rice, 8-minute new cabbage, cherry cake with custard sauce, coffee, milk.

What To Do

We are planning to give a supper before our class dance and inasmuch as there will be too many guests to be seated, would you help us plan a buffet supper with as many unusual features as possible? What kind of decorations for the table and how can we take care of the serving? Thank you.

MISS A. S. M.

Answer: A buffet supper is the thing under these circumstances and the less formal it can be made the more fun will be had by all. The decorations should carry out the class colors. If possible use fresh flowers in a colored container, but if these cannot be had in class colors, try crepe paper or ribbon streamers. Plan to have something hot for the main dish — creamed chicken, for instance—and ask the president of the class to take the ladie in hand; the treasurer can bone and girls may spread around preside over the salad bowl or dish and enjoy their supper in congenial of green vegetables. The secretary groups.

Investigate the Imperial Life Pension Plan

THE day after you receive your last salary cheque, a new life can begin for you. No more going to business; time now to do the things you've wanted to do all your life. But what will you do for money?

Are you sure you can depend upon present or future investments to furnish you income—every month, rain or shine? An Imperial Life Pension Policy will. The Imperial Life Pension Plan guarantees you an income—financial independence without work for as long as you live.

Your pension income will not be influenced by the day-to-day hazards of business vagaries and their effect upon other investments. Thoughtful, provident men in all walks of life are enjoying the results of the Imperial Life Pension Plan. No other investment you can make can be so downright safe.

Now is the time to provide for that older person you will be some day. The younger you are now the less you will need to save.

See your Imperial Life representative. There is an Imperial Policy to match your needs.

$147 every month for self and wife as long as either lives

A few years ago a doctor decided to investigate the income possibilities of his Imperial Life insurance. He had bought his insurance over a period of years, without any definite realization of what it would do for him. To his delight he discovered that the insurance would pay him a pension as long as he and his wife shall live.

He is now 65 years of age, his wife 64. They are receiving a minimum income of $147 per month. Even should the doctor predecease his wife she will still receive the guaranteed income as long as she lives.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, May 20—Wall Street seemed a bit less worried over the war today, although still far from confident, and selected steels and other stock market leaders pushed up 1 to 3 points before encountering opposition.

EXCELLENT GAINS MADE IN WHEAT

WINNIPEG, May 20.—Excellent gains on outside markets boosted wheat futures prices more than two cents above the newly fixed minimums on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. Final quotations were 2¼-2⅛ cents higher. May at 72⅝, July 73½ and October 75⅞.

Sales of Canadian wheat and flour in the pit were estimated at 750,000 bushels. About 300,000 bushels of the total was believed to have been wheat taken by the United Kingdom while the remainder was said to have been sold in the form of flour to domestic buyers.

BELGIAN ROYAL FAMILY MOVES TO NEW SEAT

Precedent Of First Great War Followed—Government In France

By GEORGES LE LORRAIN
Havas Staff Writer

STE. ADRESSE, France, May 20—The Belgian Royal family today was expected at this new seat of the Belgian government, which installed itself here yesterday, following the precedent set in the first Great War.

Having moved from Brussels to Ostend last Thursday, the government decided to shift again to this French town outside Le Havre after German planes had bombed Ostend Thursday and Friday nights and Saturday morning.

On Thursday the departments of the Belgian government took up quarters in various Ostend hotels—the premier's staff in the Astoria, the foreign office at the Wellington, the defence ministry at the Bellevue and Britannia, near the Kursaal.

EMBASSIES

The French embassy and Swiss legation were located in the Littoral Palace and the British embassy in the Imperial Palace. The Canadian minister to Belgium, Jean Désy, and his staff, were next door at the Hotel Terlynck.

More than 100,000 refugees flooded out of Ostend after the first bombing. Immediately thereafter the city, normally a pleasant holiday seaside resort, took on a warlike aspect. The night blackout was absolute and traffic was barred from the streets after 7 p.m.

The ministerial departments, though co-operating closely with the military command in their operations, were chiefly concerned with improvising a system of evacuation of civilians from districts where military defences were being organized. The ministers were also busy arranging the creation of a Belgian defence force in France.

AIR RAID ALARMS

The government's work was hampered by constant air raid alarms as German planes arrived to comb the Ostend port and railway stations. The Germans bombed few other objectives in this area. Elsewhere in the country, however, they bombed and machine-gunned roads jammed with refugees without compunction, killing many women and children.

It was believed a few isolated squadrons of German planes were responsible for these actions, which seemed to have no military objective.

On Friday it was evident that the Allied armies must make a considerable withdrawal from north of Antwerp and also from the line through Malines, Louvain and Wavre. German divisions freed by the surrender of the Dutch army increased the pressure on Allied troops in these sectors, and at the same time the Meuse line to the south was seriously threatened.

Dutch troops flocked into Ostend. The Belgian government hastened to transport these young men away from territory threatened with German occupation. Most of them were concentrated at Courtrai, Bruges and Rulers and afterward, left for France on foot or on bicycles.

COVER WITHDRAWAL

On their way they passed columns of Allied troops moving forward to cover their withdrawal with a minimum of losses.

The news that Brussels had been occupied reached Ostend Friday afternoon together with the report that Antwerp would be taken shortly. The government functionaries rapidly prepared to evacuate Ostend by train and automobile. The French ambassador, Paul Bargeton, and the military attache, General Laurent, obtained a temporary suspension of the French order banning civilian traffic across the border.

When night fell on Ostend Friday, the city was practically deserted. The Ostend people, fearing bombardment, headed for the French frontier on foot or by bicycle, along secondary roads leaving the highways to the military convoys.

Broomhall

The f.o.b. price of Australian wheat is now 67⅞ cents a bushel but Argentine wheat offers have been withdrawn, shipments are heavy and remaining supplies small. It is suggested in some circles that the Argentine government may prohibit further export sales of wheat to Europe at some early date. Nearly two-thirds of the season's total surplus has already left the country and much has been shipped out in the last few months. Great Britain recently bought for shipment up to October. There are now 10,654,000 bushels of wheat in the port stocks. Australia cables the visible supply is now 121,000,000 bushels, which is 30,000,000 bushels down from the peak in early February. The Orient is taking flour and Greece took further quantity of wheat. Seeding of the new crop is progressing gradually but general rains in western Australia are badly wanted. The U.S. received further good rains on Friday of last week and the new crop wheat has benefitted. Canada reports dry weather in eastern central and northern Saskatchewan. Good germinating rains are urgently needed. About 65 per cent of the wheat in Saskatchewan was in the ground by May 13, and 25 per cent of the coarse grains. Along the southern districts of Canada rainfall has been generally satisfactory. The U.S. lower subsidy of flour exports from the Pacific coast 10 to 15 cents a barrel, this will tend to restrict flour clearances to the Orient.

NAZI FORCES THROWN BACK NINE MILES

Germans were unable to keep up their pace despite fighting of the fiercest sort.

The French have been encouraged by the result of their field gun-tank counter-attacks. Rifles, machine guns and small anti-tank guns were helpless against the formations of as many as 400 German tanks which attacked at one place, going at the rate of from 12 to 20 miles an hour and spitting fire on all sides. It took the combination of tanks and field guns to challenge the tank wedges and the motorized infantry which followed them.

ALLIES PLEASED

The Allied retirement through Belgium seems to have been effected perfectly and the Allies were pleased by it, even though it left Germany in possession of most of Belgium. By destroying roads, bridges and railroads behind them, the French, British, Belgian and some Dutch left the Germans up in the air.

German Offensive Toward Paris Checked

By H. S. HANDLER
British United Press Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin

PARIS May 20.—Allied armies were reported by military spokesmen today to have checked the German offensive toward Paris and to be fighting back strongly against an intensified mechanized thrust through northern France to Peronne and toward the English channel.

Counter-attacking under direction of Gen. Maxime Weygand, the French officially reported they had driven the Germans back on the Aisne river front near Rethel and were strongly defending the important railroad centers in the La Fere, and St. Quentin sectors of the Oise and Somme Rivers.

North of St. Quentin the Germans were reported to have attacked Peronne, only 60 miles from the English channel.

CREATED SPECULATION

The advance to the Peronne-San Quentin line seriously threatened the main French communications centers in the north at Amiens, only 30 miles from Peronne, and created speculation that the Germans would strike south toward Paris if they were able to reach Amiens.

The French claimed they still held ·eronne and St. Quentlin, both on the Somme, but the Germans were smashing at this defense line with tanks, armored cars and motorcycle columns.

Several German light mechanized units may have reached the outskirts of St. Quentin, according to Henri Bidou, military expert of L'Intransigeant, but they have failed to break the defence line along the Crozat canal between St. Quentin and La Fere.

SAW-TOOTHED WEDGE

The German lines in France were described as resembling a saw-toothed wedge driven from the Belgian border toward Peronne, which appeared to be the apex of the Nazi advance.

Thus, on the north, the line began near Maubeuge and extended irregularly by way of Landrecies and Le Cateau (which the French claimed to hold) to the Peronne front on the Somme and thence back eastward to St. Quentin and along the canal to La Fere, on the Oise River. This line protected the important railroad cross-roads of Amiens and Tergnier.

DRIVE ABANDONED

From La Fere, the line ran through the Laon sector to Rethel on the Aisne river and thence to Montmedy.

Military sources said that the German drive from Rethel on Paris had been abandoned because of the threat of Allied counter-attacks which would permit the British forces retiring through western Belgium to wheel and attack the German right flank.

Weygand attempted two or perhaps three counter-attacks today, designed to strike at the base of the German wedge. One was in the Maubeuge sector, another near Laon and possible a third on the Rethel-Montmedy front.

BIBLE QUOTE USED IN TALK BY CHURCHILL

LONDON, May 20.—A pre-Reformation Biblical quotation was used by Prime Minister Churchill Sunday in closing his broadcast address with an appeal to "arm yourselves" and "be in readiness for the conflict."

The quotation refers to preparedness of his people by Judas Machabeau for battle against the mighty armies of King Antiochus which came out of Syria. It is further related that Antiochus' armies were routed.

Mr. Churchill used these words in giving the quotation:

"Arm yourselves and be ye men of valor, and be in readiness for the conflict, for it is better for us to perish in battle than to look upon the outrage of our nation and our altars. As the will of God is in heaven, even so let him do."

Instead Of Police

LONDON, May 20.—New traffic light installation of 23 signal units at the bank in the heart of London is expected to do the work of nine traffic policemen.

One Dangerous Age

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—Most pedestrians killed in traffic accidents are 50 years of age or more, their "pedestrian habits" solidly formed before the automobile became commonplace, the California State Auto association points out.

Dear Old London

BLACKPOOL, England, May 20.—Crowded by summer visitors in this seashore resort on the British west coast, 3,000 civil servants brought here for safety during the winter, are clamoring to return to the London offices.

Scotsmen Parade Here As Prelude To Annual Games

Exceeding all previous attendance records, the annual church parade and divine service of the Edmonton Highland Games Association, held Sunday, drew 5,000 persons to the legislative buildings grounds. In addition to spectators at the buildings, thousands of persons on foot and in automobiles lined the route over which the parade passed, its four bands acting as a magnet to many as stirring marches were played.

From many points came devoted Scots to attend. Many were full Highland regalia which lent an atmosphere of color and distinction to the event, which was a prelude to the annual Highland Games which will be held at the South Side Athletic Grounds on Empire Day, May 24.

At the legislative buildings, the large crowd heard addresses which thrilled them, recalling as they did their Scottish ancestry and pride in the achievements of their race.

Rendezvous of units participating in the parade was Jasper Avenue and 100A street, where Sgt. Maj. Alex Riddell of the city police force acted as parade marshal.

Shortly after 3 p.m. the parade moved off.

BAND IN LEAD

In the lead was the 49th Battalion pipe band, under Pipe Major H. Laing. Closely following were two standard - bearers, R. T. Anderson and T. Craig, carrying the Scottish standard and Union Jack respectively.

John C. McDougall, president of the Highland Games Association headed the sponsoring group. Marching with him were Rev. George A. Macdonald, association chaplain, and Rev. D. C. Ramsey, minister of Garneau United church.

Next in order were T. H. Campbell, chieftain of the association; R. J. Jamieson, immediate past-president, and Jack Strachan, publicity director.

This group was followed by other members of the executive.

Along the route of the march the participating bands enlivened the proceeding with martial strains.

In addition to the 49th band, music was provided by the Edmonton School Boys Band, the Canadian Corps Association fife, drum and bugle band and the Boys Pipe band.

A detachment of the Legion of Frontiersmen took part in the parade, as did some of the girl competitors in the piping and dancing classes of the Highland games. Medals worn by those who had won coveted honors in previous games, attracted special attention.

Moving west on Jasper, the parade turned south on 107 street to the legislative buildings grounds. A special platform, decorated with Union Jacks was provided for the executive and speakers.

Those on the platform included Messrs. McDougall, T. H. Campbell, A. Buchan, J. Caldwell, R. T. Anderson, A. J. McCormack, Donald Mackie and the two ministers in charge of the service.

SALVATION ARMY BAND

The Salvation Army band played for the singing of the hymns throughout the service. Rev. Mr. Macdonld, in his address, paid tribute to the traditions of Scotland as well as to those of St. George, St. Patrick and St. David of England, Ireland and Wales, respectively.

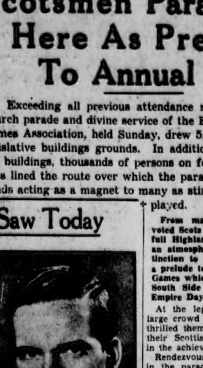

The realm of learning was one in which Scotland stood out specially prominently, said Mr. Macdonald. He emphasized that crofters on the moors frequently were learned men.

He lauded Robert Burns, Scotland's national poet and he stressed the faith of such men as David Livingstone. Traditions of the Scottish people, he said, were not alone rooted in the mind, but also abounded in the soul.

He declared that while the Scottish people often were revolutionary in theology, they kept before them at all times the sovereign will of God. He said that in such times as these, when everything worth while was being put to the test, people should recall the tradition of placing their trust in God. They should meet adversity and go forward to conquer. He declared democracy to be "the wholesome child of religious faith."

Rev. D. C. Ramsey read the Scriptural passages and led in prayer. Hymns sung during the service were All People That on Earth Do Dwell, The Lord is My Shepherd and Lift Up Mine Eyes.

WORK STARTS CLEARING SITE OF AIR CENTRE

Brushing and clearing the 30-acre plot on which hangars and 14 administrative buildings will be built in connection with the Empire Air-Training scheme started at the city airport Monday. Several hundred workmen seeking employment gathered at the site early Monday.

General contract for the work was awarded to the Bennett and White Construction Co. Ltd., and as soon as the ground is prepared and plans completed for the arrangement of the 16 buildings construction will be rushed.

Highlanders Parade To Divine Service

Members of the Edmonton Highland Games Association Sunday attended a divine service at the legislative buildings grounds following a parade through city streets. The parade is here shown reaching the grounds just before the service commenced. In the front are T. H. Campbell (right), Chieftain of the Association and R. J. Jamieson (left), immediate past president. The two standard bearers are R. T. Anderson and Tom Craig, the former carrying the Scottish Standard (right) and the latter the Union Jack (left). It is estimated fully 5,000 attended the service and several thousand more witnessed the parade as it moved through city streets.

JURYMEN NOT REQUIRED IN MAY ASSIZES

Accused Elect For Trial By Judge; Tobacco Charges Adjourned

Jurymen summoned for duty at May assizes will not be required to attend the court sittings as all accused on the docket elected for trial by judge without jury when criminal court sittings opened Monday before Mr. Justice W. C. Ives.

Adjournment until the September assizes was granted in the charges against nine tobacco manufacturers of being members of an alleged "tobacco combine". Application for the adjournment was made by J. W. McClung, K.C., crown prosecutor. These are the non-jury cases in the tobacco trial.

NO OBJECTION

H. H. Parlee, K.C., counsel for some of the tobacco companies said he "neither consented nor opposed the adjournment." Council representing other defendants offered no objection to the application.

Stay of proceedings were filed by Crown Prosecutor J. W. McClung, K.C., in supreme court Monday in theft charges against Emil Bergstrom and Mrs. Hannah Bergstrom, Collinton district residents. They were charged with theft of a quantity of farm equipment, machinery and livestock.

GAMING HOUSE CHARGE

A stay of proceedings was entered also in the charges against Alberta Sports Limited of keeping a gaming house, but six individual defendants were fined $10 each on keeping counts.

Charges of theft from the post office at Sunnybrook, from the Pioneer Grain Company at that point and a "mischief charge" laid by the R.C.M.P. were adjourned to the next sittings of the criminal court at Wetaskiwin on application of Neil D. Maclean, K.C., counsel for the accused.

POLICE GUARD FORMER GERMAN CLUB QUARTERS

Taking swift action as the result of telephoned tips reaching headquarters, city police under the direction of Staff Insp. M. Blackwood posted an all-night guard over the premises of the former Edelweiss club, 101A avenue and 97 street, Saturday.

Information police received prior to taking action was to the effect that patriotic citizens were contemplating action to stop the staging of a dance by members of the Ukrainian National Association on the premises of the former German Club headquarters. Indignation over the fact that the German organization receives rental fees for use of the hall was said to be the reason for the contemplated demonstration, according to police information.

On the advice of Insp. Blackwood, officials of the Ukrainian National Association decided to call off the dance and several couples who arrived at the hall were so informed. As a further precaution-ary measure police officers remained on guard at the premises throughout the night, but no attempts to raid the hall were made.

Edelweiss club was closed as a German club meeting place immediately upon the British declaration of war against Germany Sept. 3. Since that time, however, the hall has been rented from time to time for dances and other social purposes.

Through The Mill

A quiet rest at a relative's farm during the warm, sunny days that lie ahead would have suited the accused drunk much better than a sojourn in the government hostlery at Fort Saskatchewan. As a matter of fact the aging toper made just that suggestion to the magistrate in city police court Monday A.M. when he appeared as a "second offender" on a charge of being drunk in a public place. But it didn't work worth a hoot. The record showed that accused was really getting a break in being listed as a two-time offender. Right in black and white was a list as long as your arm of intoxication, selling liquor, general bootlegging and so on. One glance at said record and accused had about as much chance of taking a trip to the relative's farm as Hitler has of winning the Nobel Peace Prize.

"There is no use suspending sentence on you. You don't seem to learn," His Worship remarked. Accused will spend those nice, warm sunny days, or sixty of them, if we have that many, in jail, doing hard labor to boot.

The Inquiring Reporter

THE QUESTION

"Do you think that youth hostels, where hikers and cyclists can stop overnight during trips, could be successfully established in Northern Alberta, as they have been in the southern part of the province?"

THE ANSWERS

PINKIE MARSHALL, stenographer: It would be a very good idea. Many of the boys and girls in Edmonton who are cyclists would like to take trips to Jasper and if there were hostels along the road they could take those and many trips.

* * *

GORDON NEWMAN, lawyer: Youth hostels for hikers and cyclists would be very popular with Edmonton residents, and I think that they would be used a great deal during the summer and fall.

* * *

JIMMY ALLARD, continuity writer: They would be extremely popular, and an asset to the country, particularly from the point of view of health. They should certainly be established.

* * *

J. R. "PAT" PATENAUDE, clerk: The ones in southern Alberta have proved successful, and I think that if they were established along the route to Jasper, to begin with, they would be used a great deal by hikers and cyclists during week-end trips.

LOW MAY GET HOUSE SEAT IN VEGREVILLE

George Woytkiw Rumored Likely To Make Room For Treasurer

Renewed reports circulated in well-informed political circles Monday that the Vegreville constituency would be opened for Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer, to seek a legislative seat. It was stated that George Woytkiw, who won the seat in the provincial general election, would resign to make way for Mr. Low.

Two weeks ago it was rumored that Vegreville or Sedgewick would be the most likely constituency to be opened for Mr. Low. Both Mr. Woytkiw and A. E. Fee, member for Sedgewick, denied any knowledge of the move.

There were renewed reports Monday that Mr. Woytkiw would resign, after it was learned that recently he had had a conference with Mr. Low.

Should Mr. Woytkiw resign, it is expected that he will return to the civil service and resume his duties as a member of the debt adjustment organization.

FIRE DAMAGES PACKING PLANT ROOF CUPOLA

Fanned by a high wind, fire started by sparks from a smokestack did considerable damage to elevator shaft cupola on the roof of the plant of Swift Canadian Co. Ltd., North Edmonton, shortly after 10:30 p.m. Saturday.

Discovered by a night watchman, the blaze was battled with some success by the private fire brigade of the company, before a call for assistance was put in to the city department, which responded by rushing apparatus from No. 1 and No. 5 halls.

Following the arrival of the city equipment the blaze was soon brought under control. Machinery and electrical equipment, used in the operation of the elevators, was undamaged, despite the fact the fire was difficult to fight because of the small space where the machinery is housed.

While the packing plant blaze was being fought, some equipment had to be sent to the Edmonton stockyards to check fire in a manger here.

Fire Chief James MacGregor directed operations at both fires.

Money For Soldiers Buys More Comforts Through I.O.D.E. Fund

Cigarettes, tobacco, chocolate and other comforts are much appreciated by soldiers on duty, The Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire, which did memorable work in the first Great War and has continued to do so ever since, is once more on the active list, and has formed a Field Comforts Fund, through which commodities are sent to the boys.

You can do more for the boys by sending comforts through this fund than if you send direct. Here is how.

The Canadian transportation companies are carrying all such comforts sent through this fund, without cost. Excise is being waived on such comforts sent through the fund.

Therefore, your money, if sent direct to the I.O.D.E. will go further in purchasing these comforts than if you bought them yourself, paid carriage and excise.

The Bulletin is happy to receive donations to this fund, pass them on to the I.O.D.E. and acknowledge receipt of same through these columns.

Contracts Given For 30 Miles On Highway Project

Two Edmonton firms on Monday were awarded provincial public works department contracts for reconstruction and base course gravelling of 30 miles of the main one highway running from this city south to the international boundary.

Last week contracts were let for 35 miles of reconstruction on the Jasper highway west of this city, thus bringing the total awarded in the two groups to 65 miles.

The Fred Wilson company was awarded the contract for a 22-mile section between Wetaskiwin and Ponoka. The Poole Construction Company gained the contract for a seven mile stretch between Calgary and Okotoks. Work will get under way as soon as possible.

The government is seeking to complete all connecting links with the Jasper highway well before July 1 so as to be able to take care of the anticipated tourist rush in connection with the opening of the new mountain scenic highway from Jasper to Banff.

A record tourist season is expected.

POLES CALLING FOR CARRYING WAR TO NAZIS

Barbaric Methods Of Germany Condemned By Societies

There was no room in the European struggle for neutral nations at September; there cannot be room now for neutrals in this fight for the preservation of our culture and civilization against German barbarism, is the belief expressed by the Federation of Polish Societies in Canada, through thes ociety's president, P. T. Andrez, of Winnipeg.

Condemnation of the barbaric methods of attack without declaration of war and the slaughter of civilians was expressed by the society in a statement received in the city Monday.

"These German methods are not new. We witnessed them in Poland last September, and again in Norway, Holland and Belgium. The war waged against these countries cries for revenge and calls to the entire civilized world for help.

The Polish nation demands the fullest prosecution of unconditional warfare against Germany, and the employment of the same methods with which the Germans are fighting.

The Polish nation demands the total destruction of Germany after this war, as it considers it inconceivable that the world should be bled mortally every 25 years because of Germany's lust to rule others.

The society considered that if the Allies alone cannot beat the Germans that it was the duty of the United States and all democratic American republics to finish the Huns of the 20th century.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

MIKE BENTLEY, wealthy rancher, knew too much about auto accidents.

YESTERDAY: Larry and Monnie become better friends. One night he asks her to go to a dance, but she has a date with Bentley. When Mike is delayed, Larry stops to chat. He questions her about the accident on Dead Man's Curve. She refuses, angrily, to talk about it. "I have a right to know," Larry tells her. "That man was my brother."

CHAPTER VII.

of Larry's fingers. She looked up at him, unbelieving.

"Your brother!"

"Yes."

"But the man was never identified. He was burned so horribly."

"I know it was Hugh," Larry tried to make his voice calm. It wasn't easy, talking to her like this. His hands dropped from her shoulders. "When I didn't hear from Hugh, I came down to look for him. I've been all over the west, searching for him," Larry lied. "I hear about this accident, this unidentified man. I took a chance it might be Hugh. I was right. A dentist's examination confirmed it."

"I'm sorry, Larry, terribly sorry." The touch of her hand on his arm was comforting, her sympath: was sincere. She sat down again, gently pulled him to the swing beside her. "Tell me more about him, Larry."

He rolled a cigarette, tried to keep his eyes from her.

That Monnie knew more about this accident than she was telling, he was sure. But how could he find out, without arousing her suspicions. Perhaps she might be involved—No, Monnie would never be mixed up in a crooked deal. But if she loved Bentley. . . . A woman will do almost anything for the man she loves.

What was Bentley's role? Hating Bentley as he did, it was easy for Larry to accuse him of some part in Hugh's death. Bentley was on friendly terms with a bank robber—this Bill was working at the Circle-Cross.

A match flared in the darkness. Monnie's hand was touching his own. Larry liked being near to her. He was tempted to put his arm around her, pull her close, kiss those inviting lips. Monnie's voice brought him back to the present.

"This brother of yours, Larry—"

"Hugh was a swell guy," Larry began. "Married; lived downstate. He was—he was in the insurance business— Burglary insurance. Traveled a lot. But he wrote me regularly, and wrote to Betty, his wife, every day.

"When Betty didn't hear from him for a week, she wired me. I came down and we've been looking for him ever since. That was more than five months ago." He hoped Monnie wouldn't ask why, as a newspaperman, he couldn't have checked accident records sooner. She didn't, was apparently too deeply engrossed in her own thoughts.

"And to think," she said abruptly, "I was the cause of the accident. I killed your brother, Larry."

"Monnie! You don't know what you're saying."

"It's true, Larry. I didn't mean to, but I did. It was my fault! Oh,Larry!" Sobs shook her body, and Larry's arm went around her then, to pull her head down on his shoulder. After a few minutes, she stopped crying, dried her eyes and pushed away from him.

"Don't blame me too much, Larry, if I hadn't been driving so fast—"

"It happened up on Dead Man's Curve," she began. "That's on the highway about half-way between here and Mike's. You know where you leave the concrete to turn into the Hayhook. . . . If you went straight on, you'd dip down in the canyon and then climb a long hill to go by the Bentley's. The curve is halfway up the hill. It's a sharp turn, but it's well marked and not dangerous unless you try to make it too fast. Going up, you have the inside. The canyon floor is about 300 feet below the curve and it's almost a sheer drop."

Larry could feel her grow tense as she forced herself to go on.

"On the night of the accident, Mike called me. It was late but he said he'd just come back from Chicago, flown down with some friends and they wanted to meet me. He'd brought me some presents, too, and some things I'd asked him to get for me. He couldn't leave his guests, he said, so would I drive right over.

"I was on the way inside of half an hour. I always drive fast and I went up the hill doing about 50 or 60. Then at the curve—"

She paused briefly, got a new grip on her emotions, then went on.

"I must have been about 200 yards from the curve when this car came down the hill. I couldn't stop. The driver apparently made no effort to turn, when he saw my lights. His car crashed through the barricade, plunged over the cliff and rolled down into the canyon.

"I stopped as soon as I could, pulled off the road a little and ran back to where the car had disappeared. Far down the canyon, I could see flames shooting up from the wreckage of the car. Then I heard a shot.

"I stood there, paralyzed, and suddenly, Mike was beside me. Together we scrambled and slid down to the car, tried to pull the dead man from the burning wreck. Mike finally succeeded, got burned himself.

"Pretty soon there were other people around and at last two highway patrolmen arrived. Mike talked to them for a bit, then helped me climb back up to the road. He brought me home."

"But that's not the story you told at the inquest," Larry broke in. "You testified that the car went over the edge before you reached the turn—"

"Mike made me say that, Mike and Daddy," Monnie admitted. "After that accident at school, and the others I had been in, Mike said the coroner would never believe I hadn't forced the man off the road. I didn't want to lie about it, Larry —she was begging him to believe her—"but Mike was right. With my reputation for fast driving, and because I was the only witness to the accident—they might have tried me for manslaughter. The man was dead—I couldn't help him any, and—Oh, Larry, I wanted to tell the truth, but Dad said Mike was right. And Pete Bar...n, too. Won't you try to believe me Larry?"

Looking at her, Larry knew she was telling the truth. Hugh's death had been no fault of hers. Hugh probably saw the lights of her car, speeding toward him, took the curve rather than crash into her head-on. Hugh was like that. Larry would have done the same thing, had he been in Hugh's place.

"I believe you, Monnie," he said. "I don't blame you."

He paused a minute, puzzling over an unanswered question. "How did Bentley get there so fast?" he asked.

Monnie had an answer for that.

"Mike said he went outside to wait for me, right after he called. He saw this car go racing down the highway, swinging from side to side, as if the driver were drunk. Mike was afraid there would be a wreck if we met, was terrified to think what might happen to me if we met on Dead Man's Curve, so he hurried out to stop me."

"Bentley said Hugh drove like he was drunk?" Larry demanded.

"Hugh was drunk, Larry. The autopsy showed he had been drinking, and a broken whiskey bottle was found in his car."

"But Monnie," Larry countered, "My brother never drank liquor in his life."

Sound Golf

IF ANY person is nursing a suspicion that the Grad organization is disbanding because it is worn out, Saturday night's game should eliminate such a hunch entirely.

Playing against the mighty Wichita Thurstons, the Grad machine seemed to be purring along as smoothly as it ever did. True enough Mrs. McCloy, the former Mabel Munton, came out of retirement to play guard, but three rookies in Betty Bawden, Kay MacRitchie and Winnie Gallen were also in action.

Perhaps it isn't quite right to call this trio rookies since it was MacRitchie's 16th Grad game, Gallen's 17th and Bawden's 11th. However in view of the fact that Mabel Munton McCloy was playing her 147th game in Grad uniform on Saturday the rookie tag is not wholly out of place. It takes a heap of games to make a veteran Grad.

It was fast, snappy basketball that a crowd of some 2,500 fans witnessed with Wichita good enough to keep the issue in doubt up until the last few minutes of play. The series isn't over and in the bag by any means and it will be surprising if the Kansas invaders don't turn in at least one win. If it hadn't been for the brilliant field shooting of Sophie Brown, the Wichita squad might have opened the series with a victory.

When the Grads give up the Underwood trophy next month (if they manage to retain it that long), such a team as Wichita Thurstons would prove worthy defenders. The Underwood trustees have not yet announced what will be done with the coveted award, but it should be kept open for competition with possession possibly determined by a tourney among the teams interested in it.

Wichita uses a system of play that closely resembles the Grads' style. Coach Buddy Reynolds' girls don't break down the floor on attack as fast as the Grads, but they use much the same technique to work in close under the hoop to shoot from short range. Wichita girls have maintained their organization now for 11 consecutive years and are rapidly building up traditions in their city such as the Grads have established here.

Owing to the tremendous drawing power of men's basketball in the states, it is hardly likely that a girls team will ever reach such a pinnacle there as the Grads have here. However with plenty of good opposition right near in surrounding states, a team would not have the financial power that the Grads required to maintain international competition.

The sands are running low in the Grads' hour glass. Better obey that impulse and take in tonight's game for it won't be long until you will never again have the opportunity.

Stop This Hushing Business

MAYBE it is the baseball background in me, but I'll never get accustomed to the polite and deathly silence that suddenly falls when you go to make a shot in a golf tourney. It makes me feel like the star attraction at a funeral. I'd much prefer to be razed than subjected to this silent treatment.

I've stoutly maintained this argument single-handed for years, but now I've got some weighty backing. The other day Jimmy Demaret, Babe Ruth, Gene Sarazen and Gene Tunney played an exhibition charity match at Norwalk, Conn., in which noise was encouraged at all times. Demaret and Sarazen were enthusiastic about it and declared it took all the strain and pressure out of the game. Babe Ruth was right at home of course with a gallery of 5,000 ribbing and applauding and so was Tunney.

The players put the blast on each other in the middle of a drive or putt and the huge crowd had more fun than any golf gallery ever did before. There was even a six-piece band along to add to the merriment. It is a scant that might well be tried out here where the golf moguls want a big gallery. This polite shush-shushing is too horrible for words.

GRADS DEFEAT WICHITA GIRLS 52-34

Field Accuracy Gives Champs Winning Edge

By JACK DEAKIN
Edmonton Bulletin Sports Editor

ROLLING along with the same smooth efficiency of bygone years and showing no sign whatever that in a few short weeks now it will be disbanded forever, the Grad machine raced through to a 52-34 victory over Wichita Thurstons here Saturday night in the opening game of another Underwood trophy series.

The second game will be played tonight with the starting whistle slated to blow at 8:30 p.m. If the Grads can win this one, they will be heavy favorites to take the series.

Saturday night's battle was a keen struggle until well into the fourth quarter when the Grads piled up most of their winning margin with a sudden barrage of effective field shots.

ALWAYS DANGEROUS

Although the Wichita girls were never ahead of the Grads and tied with them for only a minute or two in the third period, they were nearly always within two or three baskets of the world champions and a mighty serious threat.

Grads out-scored the invaders 11-9 in the first period and 10-6 in the second. Wichita counted 12 in the third frame to the Grads' 11, but in the fourth period the Edmontonians out-pointed their opponents 20-7.

Field accuracy, particularly that of Helen Northup and Sophie Brown, was the deciding factor for the Grads. They scored 21 field baskets out of 64 shots for 32.8 per cent. while Wichita scored 13 out of 65 shots for an average of 20 per cent.

SOPHIE TOP SNIPER

Sophie Brown, was the top scorer for the night with 18 points, but Hazel McConnaughy of Wichita was only one point behind her. The Wichita ace was especially effective on penalty shots with seven points scored out of a possible 11.

Personal fouls sent two Wichita girls to the sidelines, Delores Mohr early in the third period and Friesen just before the end of the game. The Grads lost none on penalties. Sixteen personals were called on the invaders and 10 on the Grads.

Following is the detailed box score:

GRADS—	FS	FT	Pts	Pit	Fs	Pts
Northup	6	14	0	0	4	12
Brown	8	22	2	4	3	18

Kemp Richardson Advances to Third Round Golf Play

CALGARY, May 20.—In defense of the championship he won a year ago, Kemp Richardson advanced into the third round of the city amateur golf tournament as a result of two victories at the Earl Grey club course Sunday. Others who duplicated Richardson's feat were, Duane Barr, Stew Vickers, Alf Pow, Gordon MacWilliams, Len Shuman, Ken Ripley, Bill Graves, Ernie Le Nevue, Chris Rockely, Bob Bray, Charlie Scott.

Upsets during the day included defeats of Ber. Greer and Ronnie MacWilliams in the first round and Ralph Ormond in the second.

Montreal Police Win Shoot Event

MONTREAL, May 20.—Montreal police team No. 1 posted the highest score in the first round of the 15th annual nation-wide Dominion Marksman Chief Constables Revolver competition, it was announced today from headquarters of the Dominion Marksmen Organization here.

The Montrealers scored 1,899 of a possible 2,000.

Their score won them the Quebec provincial title and the right to compete later in the month against other provincial title-holders for the national championship, held last year by a team from Victoria.

Other senior provincial winners and scores included: Calgary City Police, team No. 1, 1,765.

Provincial title winners in the 1pro class included: Calgary City Police, team No. 2, 1,284.

RONNIE NASH GIVES WINNER PERFECT RIDE

By FOSTER BARCLEY

TORONTO, May 20.—Name of a gallant brown gelding, Willie The Kid, was engraved in Canadian turf history today—winner of the 51st running of the King's Plate.

Amid the roar of more than 30,000 persons, Willie The Kid, a first time starter, staged a brilliant stretch drive Saturday to win the 1½ mile classic three furlongs. H C. Hatch's Curwen finished second, a length in front of Jack McIntyre's Hood.

FIRST WOMAN WINNER

For the first time also the records of the King's Plate bore the name of a woman, Miss M. A. Kane, owner of the winner. After the race Miss Kane was presented with the equivalent of 50 guineas in dollars, donated by the King, the major portion of a $7,500 added purse and a silver cup.

Much of the credit for Willie The Kid's victory rested on a slim Toronto jockey, Ronnie Nash. Nash was commissioned at the last moment and arrived Saturday morning from Belmont Park.

The triumph fulfilled a long-time ambition. Born when he was making fruitless efforts to become a jockey. Owners and trainers turned him down until Arthur J. Halliwell, Toronto owner, heard his story two years ago and gave him a chance. Nash went to the United States and was an immediate success.

HALF BROTHER

Willie the Kid is a half-brother of Bunty Lawless, winner of the Plate two years ago and was named after Bunty's owner, Willie Morrisey. The gelding did not start as a two-year-old when he was afflicted with leg trouble.

Curwen and Willie The Kid were installed as split favorites. Willie The Kid got $6.70 to win, $4.45 to place and $3.70 to show.

The time was 1:55 4-5 over a track a little on the slow side. The record for the Plate was set in 1924 when Horometer won in 1:54 1-5.

Price Of Wheat Collapses Again On Chicago Mart

CHICAGO, May 20.—The price of wheat collapsed again Saturday in a hectic market frightened by the worldwide economic implications of the German thrust.

Values toppled as much as 10 cents a bushel, extending the week's decline to around 36 cents, steepest and swiftest price break in modern grain market history. Board of trade officials found nothing greater than this in any single session.

Rye values also fell 10 cents while corn tumbled 8, the limit in these pits, and at Minneapolis, Kansas City and Winnipeg wheat crashed the 10-cent limits.

Army and Navy Pats to Practice Again Tonight

The Army and Navy Pats practise again this evening at 6.45 p.m. at the Gyro Park on 95 Street. Just two more work-outs after this evening's and the Pats will attempt to defeat their old rivals of last year, the Royals, (now operating under the name of the Buffaloes) in an exhibition game at Olds on the 24th.

Selection of the team must be made immediately for the league gets under way this coming week-end, perhaps at the new softball park at 101 street and Kingsway.

Last year, 1939 Senior Leaders' champions must build a new squad this season for three of their infielders, the mainstay Second baseshort step, and third base will be occupied by new players. Those who appear to have the inside track for these positions are: Madge Newman, Babs Dupont, June Causegrove, Beryl Westbrook, Phoebe Kell, and Priddy Harris.

Soccer Elevens Matched For Play

LONDON, May 20.—Fourth-round games for the English football league war cup will be played May 25. The draw made Sunday follows: Fulham vs. Everton; Blackburn Rovers vs. West Bromwich Albion, Blackpool vs. Newcastle United, Huddersfield Town or West Ham United vs. Birmingham.

Haynes Goes Back In Active Service

MONTREAL, May 20.— Paul Haynes, shifted from a playing to a scouting role midway through the last National Hockey League season by Montreal Canadiens, will return to the active list in the 1940-41 schedule, business manager Frank Patrick of Canadiens announced Saturday.

Patrick said the return of Haynes to an active role is being made at the request of coach Dick Irvin, mentor of Toronto Maple Leafs last season. The business manager said it is intended to pair Haynes again with Hector (Toe) Blake, the Habitants' ace left winger who led the league in scoring 1938-40.

CIVICS PRACTICE

Tom Collingwood's Civics get right down to work again this evening with a practice called for 6:45 p.m. at Clarke Stadium. The Civics will be in their first league competition on Wednesday against the Triumphant Callies and Manager Thomas wants a full turnout for this important drill.

Harney And Morgan Line Up Strong Teams For Baseball Opener Tuesday

SENIOR baseball comes back to Renfrew Park on Tuesday evening as the Central Alberta Senior Baseball League gets its start in Edmonton. Laurel Harney leading the Arrows, and Ralph Morgan with his "Orphans," will pry the lid off a lengthy 72-game schedule with the starting time fixed for 6:30 p.m. Wetaskiwin and Ponoka, remaining teams in the four-team circuit, will let loose their first baseball blast on May 24th.

Harney and Morgan will field strong contenders. The Arrows once again will be a fairly youthful squad while Morgan will call upon many of his young veterans. A good sprinkling of new talent will also take the field for the Orphans.

BAER TO START

Morgan will call upon the veteran Duke Baer to toe the rubber on the pitching hill. Baer gained his first pitching honors in the old senior circuit and reported back this year looking in fine fettle for a big season. Johnny Lupul will do the catching for the Orphans. Morgan, himself a pitcher, has ample relief in Tommy Brant, Jack Smith and J. Hall, formerly of Idaho.

Harold Warner will hold down first base for the Morgenmen with Eddie Williams at second base, Fred Kokura at short field and either Morgan or Tommy Brant at the hot corner.

And the Orphans appear to have power in the outfield with Gerry Stewart looking good again. Jimmy Whittaker, Rupert McPeak and Carmichael may see some duty while the veteran George Green will be patrolling centre for the Orphanst.

McAULEY FOR ARROWS

Harney has picked the popular Ken McAuley to start the pitching for his Arrows. McAuley proved an outstanding statesman for the juniors last year and in early training appears ready for his senior start. Cliff Kilburn will be snubbing back of the bat while the veteran catcher, Harney, will take over first base.

For relief hurling there is Bud Foley, Lefty Beier, Billy Lupul, Joe Ryan and O'Donald.

Gordon Gunderson will hold down the second sack for Arrows with Hank Ormest a good substitute at this position. Max Colville will be second-basing for the Arrows with Normie Fairhurst hustling at third base.

Neil Colville will be a big power in the outfield and will be supported by Dave Brockie, Fred Lupul, Johnston and Sandy Milligan.

Gorillas often attain a height of six feet and have a reach of eight feet.

BIMMIE RUNS CLOSE SECOND TO CORYDON

NEW YORK, May 20—Bimeleeh didn't have it Saturday. He ran second to Mrs. Payne Whitney's Corydon in the 65th running of the Withers mile at Belmont Park and they appeared to be no excuse for the colt who was touted as the "second Man-O-War."

Back down to 1 to 5 in the betting, Colonel E. R. Bradley's gallant was never in front, didn't have the run when he made his bid in the stretch, and had to call on the camera to take second money.

Before a crowd of 29,842—largest of the New York season—Bimmie was beaten badly by a colt that has won only one race previously in his career.

Eleven lengths back, a dead last, in the backstretch, Corydon seemed to have no chance. The jockey Eddie Arcaro turned him loose. He was sixth at the half-mile pole, third at the three-quarters, and second as the field of eight turned for home. He caught the leader just inside the eighth pole, finally finishing two lengths on top in 1:37 1-5 for the mile.

Corydon was the highest-paying horse of New York's spring season. He returned $27.00 for each $2 win ticket, $10.60 for place and $5.30 for show.

BEN HOGAN WINS GOODALL TOURNEY

NEW YORK, May 20—Ben Hogan won the Goodall Robin golf tournament with a thrilling final round of 69 over Fresh Meadow course to take first prize of $1,000.

Hogan shot seven rounds of match play in 491 strokes, one over par. His final "plus" score was 23, meaning he won that many more holes than he lost in the seven rounds. He won ten matches while losing four.

Sam Sneed's 71-69 on the last day gave him second prize of $750. He finished with a plus score of 29, picking up 12 points in his last two rounds. Gene Sarazen won the third money, $500, with seven plus points. Dick Metz turned in two great rounds of 68-69 today to finish with five points and win fourth money, $450.

MARTELLS WIN 6 AND 5 OVER MAYFAIR PAIR

The Martell brothers, Henry and Burns, turned in another smashing victory in defence of the Eaton challenge trophy at the Highlands Golf and Country club on Sunday afternoon when they defeated Ted West and Dr. Broadfoot of Mayfair 6 and 5.

Playing their home course with mechanical perfection, the Martells won the first four holes and halved the next four as the Mayfair challengers bore down and made a rousing bid. The defenders took the 9th, halved the 10th and 11th, copped the 12th and halved the 13th.

Henry Martell was one under par at the end of the match, while Burns was two over par.

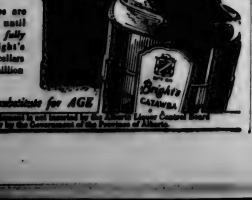

Next Sunday's challengers will be the Highlands pair of Harry Shaw and Pete Olynyk.

Following are the detailed scores:

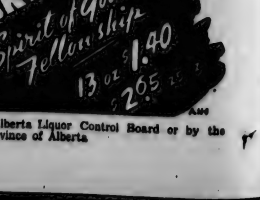

Par	443 543 444—	35	433 4—34
Broadfoot	553 653 456—	42	464 4—38
West	654 554 545—	43	454 5—18
B. Martel	444 454 444—	37	433 4—16
H. Martell	443 453 444—	34	433 4—16

THE FAIRWAY WOOD

Let the condition of the lie determine the club to be used on the fairway. Even though the wide open space ahead invites a long, smashing shot, satisfactory results will depend on how well you get the ball away. Make it an unwritten law to use the brassie only when the ball is setting up well. Otherwise the spoon should be the choice and the difference in length between brassie and spoon is compensated by getting off a satisfactory shot. When hitting with the wind off the tee I advise using a brassie.

Callies Win Soccer Opener By 1-0 Defeating South Side With Late Tally

DON CAVANAGH'S Callies opened the soccer season here with a 1-0 triumph against South Side United. The win gave the Scottish a game lead in the Vets-Martin trophy event and the Scots will meet Civics on Wednesday with plenty of confidence.

Both clubs started off at a fast pace, defences on both sides having to be on the alert for the fast incoming forwards. The Callies seemed to take the upper hand at the end of 15 minutes play as the South Side began to fall back. Callies' pressure should have brought results but a weakness in front of the goal coupled with fine goaltending by Carter in the South Side goal spoiled the Scots chances. For 10 minutes the Callies tried to get the ball behind the goalkeeper, Kerr, Smart and McAra, all having tries but without success.

At this period South Side tried hard to break off the Scots attack but they could not get past the Callies' half line. Harrison, Olander and Gardner being able to keep the opposing forwards well in check. Anderson in the Callies' goal was having an easy time, but had to look lively on a couple of breakaways. Just before half time when two dangerous looking shots were fired at him by Scott and Zousy, wing forwards of the South Side. About a minute from half-time Callies got a glorious chance to take the lead, Kerr, from the left wing lifting a ball over Carter's head but the inside forwards could not get a foot to the ball to push it over the line.

South Side made the running on resuming and Anderson had to be at his best to clear his lines. Bain-cis, Lunde and Topping all being dead on the goal with their shots. Barnes and Whitley were defending well for the Scots at this time and eventually drove back the onslaught. Some good passing plays by the Scots brought them close to Carter but this gent was giving nothing away, clearing his goal in good style.

Play ranged from end to end, neither team having any advantage. At the 20 minute mark the Callies got the first goal of the game. On a rush down the field, Olander sent the ball to Kerr on the left who shot it towards the goal. Smart seemed to get his toe on the cross to drive the ball goalwards. The ball struck the inside of the post and rolled over the line.

South Side came back strong after this reverse but were met by a strong defence and could not get close to Anderson to cause him worry as the men in front of him were giving good protection. The final whistle found the Scots making a raid on the South Side goal.

Final score, Callies 1, South Side 0.

POOLING the very best of senior baseball talent into two teams, Edmonton will have strong representation in the four-team Central Alberta Senior Baseball League. And on next Tuesday evening a few few Park the Edmonton citizenry will have their first chance to see just how good Laurel Harvey's Arrows and Ralph Morgan's Orphans really are.

A heavy week-end of practices which saw both teams working on Saturday and Sunday, ended pre-schedule drills for the teams. The workouts also resulted in both managers picking their starting teams for Tuesday's opener at Renfrew. Ralph made his pitching choice with Duke Baer who started with South Side Arctics in this old senior loop. In recent seasons Baer has had many ups and downs. His back was hurting this during most of the time, but now Baer figures he has the trouble eliminated. Some dentistry on the boy's molars has helped greatly and in the early drills Baer was looking more his old self again.

Ken McAuley, the popular reminder of Maple Leafs in junior ranks, is Harry's choice for the pitcher's hill. Ken was an outstanding junior last season. He was a hard worker at the camp Force with the Leafs. It was McAuley who came through in the pinches for Leafs and after talking a few looks at the big fellow this spring he looks ready for the senior rank.

Hitting power appears fairly evenly divided between the two teams. Morgan has a batting power in outfielders George Stewart and George Green, the latter a veteran of several seasons and usually hitting the ball "in the clutch." Stewart is younger and promising while the brightest suspect is Jimmy Whitaker, a young outfielder who has earned much praise from all who have watched the workouts. And Morgan himself can paste the pill when the need be. Harold Wisner and Fred Kokura, while not as consistent as those just named, can connect solidly at times and are always fairly dangerous.

Arrows also have power in the outfield. Neil Colville has the best hitting ability of any in the outer gardens while Dave Brockie may come through again as he did three years ago. Fred Lapsley also comes in for much consideration providing he decides to play his best ball and forget the fishing. Mac Colville and Ken McAuley have been proven good at the plate while Jamieson is an unknown quantity. Harney himself (once in a while) clubs the horsehide for distance.

LEGION VS. CIVIL SERVICE

The Legion won the third straight game of the season on Saturday defeating the Service by 36 runs. An attractive performance by Hendra and Edwards got the Legion off to a grand start. Barzon and Windsor were next best, the former playing a determined innings that left him undefeated at the end with 18. Grant's wicket fell to a splendid catch by Keith Younger in the long field.

C. B. Cox and Doug. Rowley were outstanding for the Service at bat. The former especially so, getting very fine innings for 30. Two good wickets in E. P. and W. P. Jones ref rather during the first by a perfect length ball by Croft and the second by a splendid catch by Chuckshanks. The youngsters, K. Cox and K. Younger did well getting 2 and 8 under against some good bowling.

Turkey Military Chief To Confer With Allied Heads

ANKARA, May 20—Marshal Fejzi Tehakmak, commander-in-chief of the Turkish army, left Saturday night for Beirut to confer with leaders of the Allies' military forces in the near east.

ROOSEVELT WILL SPEED DELIVERY ALLIES' PLANES

WASHINGTON, May 20—President Roosevelt was said authoritatively Sunday to have decided to put the administration's force behind efforts to speed deliveries of United States-made warplanes to the Allies.

Informed airmen said means to hasten completion of more than 4,000 planes which Britain and France ordered since the war started would figure in discussions at a conference of industrial leaders with government officials today.

The house of representatives naval affairs committee tentatively approved legislation giving the president broad powers to ignore wage and hour regulations, profit limitations and other federal laws in the hurry construction of ships and planes for the navy.

Three Drown As Dory Overturns At Burns' Cove

DIGBY, N.S., May 20—Three men, spilled from an overturned dory, drowned yesterday in Burns' cove, a Bay of Fundy inlet about eight miles from here.

The dead: Gladstone Hutchins, 32; Maynard Hutchins, 25, Gladstone's cousin; Arthur Nichols, 23.

All were from Rossway, a few miles from here on Digby neck and about a mile from Burns' cove.

Storehouse Of Death Awaits Attackers Of Canada's West Coast

This is the fourth in a series of articles written by a British United Press staff correspondent after completing a press tour of Canada's west coast defences, arranged by the Department of National Defence. —Editor.

By RONALD DODDS
British United Press Exclusive Dispatch to Edmonton Bulletin
WITH THE CANADIAN DEFENCE FORCES ON THE WEST COAST, May 20.—Somewhere along Canada's lower west coast —exact location is an official secret—is a veritable storehouse of destruction. Here are stored in vast quantities innumerable missiles of death, shells and explosives for the guns of Canada's army, navy and air force. Ready to be hurled at the invader.

Explosives are delicate things, we had been told, and to one used to dealing with nothing more deadly in this line than a small fire cracker the idea of a bomb dropping appear a bit unnecessary. After all, argue all you like, these things do go off at the wrong time occasionally.

Our guide did nothing to help our peace of mind on the first day we was to order us to leave all cigarettes, matches, lighters, and pipes at his office. (In fairness to the military authorities, however, it should be explained here that we got them all back).

MEN ARE SEARCHED

Vigilance is strict, for the penalty of carelessness is rather more than terrific. All men employed in the magazine must submit to a search for matches and any other material before entering. In fact metal of any sort on the person of those actually handling the explosives is tabu, and must be removed.

All officers and men are classified as clean and dirty, which isn't as bad as it sounds. If you're classified as dirty it merely means you're improperly dressed for handling explosives, regardless of what Esquire might say. An employee arriving in ordinary military or naval uniform is dirty, and must change to clean duds before he goes on.

Ordinary shoes are banned, as nails might cause a spark capable of blowing the whole place sky high. Special boots of rubber and leather, made without a single piece of metal, and donned inside to prevent possibility of small particles of gravel sticking to the soles, take the place of ordinary footwear. Similar garments are shed and heavy cloaks and hoods of a felt-like material, actually made of silk, are worn. In some cases gloves are added for certain types of explosives cause dangerous skin diseases. Silver watches are compulsory for those coming from the handling rooms.

Spread over 125 acres, the magazine consists of dozens of small red brick buildings, each surrounded by twenty-foot concrete walls called "flash walls" and placed around the buildings like huge dominoes. Corners are unjoined, the principle being that in event of an explosion in one of the buildings, its force would be broken by these massive guards. A solid wall would simply be blown to bits, but the loosely connected units allow escape vents.

LABORATORY TESTS

In one building we were taken into a gleaming white laboratory, ruled by a professional pharmacist. Here were tested all types of explosive. Hundreds of test tubes in racks held every known means of making a loud noise, and blowing things to bits at the same time. Laboratory tests are made periodically to determine if deterioration is present.

Our awkward squad blundered through, leaving behind only several traces of occupation in the shape of a few smashed glass trays, test tubes and other odds and ends, and the apprehensive laboratory chief released his clutch upon his most valuable microscope and gave a sigh of relief as we passed through the door.

The crown jewels are guarded with casualness compared with the vigilance that surrounded the magazine we saw, but nevertheless, we learned that those working there do so without benefit of insurance. Private companies refuse to sell them policies.

Walking down a winding concrete road, made of colored cement to blend into the background and be less visible from the sky, we passed dozens of small buildings, each a considerable distance from the other. By this means an explosion in one might be localized.

Coming down the road we saw a train of explosives and shells, drawn by a tractor.

Specially constructed and fitted with rubber tires and a spark arrester the tractor was operated by a diesel motor, for no gasoline vehicles are allowed within the gates. Behind the tractor were half a dozen small rubber tired trailers, each with a man standing on a platform at the rear. Should the couplings give way while on a grade the brakes of each would be thrown on immediately by these men.

ARMED SENTRIES

Armed sentries with fixed bayonets patrolled every foot of the area assisted by Royal Canadian Mounted Police, and entry into the compound can be obtained only by a series of seemingly minor miracles. Squeezing into the Royal Yachi squadron in a pipe

Nazi Planes Bomb Red Cross Column Holland Charges

LONDON, May 20.—A charge that the Germans had bombed a Red Cross column of 15 cars standing on an open road and machine-gunned fleteher- bearers trying to carry wounded into a trench was made Saturday by The Netherlands legation.

Prince Bernhard, consort of Crown Princess Juliana, said he learned of the alleged incident during a brief visit to Dutch troops in the province of Zeeland Thursday and Friday.

Prince Bernhard accompanied Crown Princess Juliana and their two daughters to London last Monday but then returned to The Netherlands.

Finns Confiscate All Nation's Grain

HELSINKI, May 20—The ministry of supply yesterday confiscated all grain in Finland to conserve food supplies depleted in the war with Russia. The ministry announced bread ration cards would be distributed next week.

Every door and window of the numerous buildings is inspected at least every hour for signs of attempted entry or tampering, and aircraft flying over the area are subject to heavy penalties.

After being warned, quite unnecessarily, not to step beyond an ominous red line painted across the floor, we were allowed to enter one of the buildings containing charges for big guns of the navy and the coast defence forces.

Within we saw men, dressed in the white robes usually worn by surgical nurses, handling long cylindrical cases, each containing the charge that may some day hurl a 600-pound shell at an enemy warship.

Perhaps it wouldn't be fair to say they were as nervous as we were but they certainly handled them with respect.

New buildings were under construction, and on ever increasing flow of ammunition was being stored away until the day when it may be needed, and needed badly.

Until that day, Canada is guarding it well. A feather of no mean proportions it would be in the cap of the enemy again who sabotaged it. For if it did go off it would make a very loud noise, loud enough to be heard as far away as Berlin, where hopeful ears would be waiting to hear it.

FORT WILLIAM ASKS ARMS FOR HOME DEFENCE

FORT WILLIAM, May 20—Mayor C. M. Ross, acting upon a request of the Fort William branch of the Canadian Legion, yesterday sent a telegram to the department of national defence asking that arms and ammunition be posted here for possible use in home defence.

The Legionnaires offered to recruit a volunteer force of 200 or 250 men who would be drilled under officers of the Legion and be ready for home defence if needed. Guards could be made up from men too old for overseas service but capable for home defence duties.

The arms, ammunition and other war material would be placed under control of the lakehead militia or the chief of police and be handed out to the proposed Legion home defence corps when necessary.

French Factories Work Continuously To Make War Goods

PARIS, May 20—The ministry of armaments announced last night that all factories working on its orders will operate 24 hours a day. Aviation plants already are operating continuously but some other armaments plants have been working shorter hours.

U.S. Ambulances On Way To Front

PARIS, May 20—Twenty ambulances and crews of the first section of the American service drove through Paris last night en route to the battle zone in northern France.

THRIFT STAMP WILL BE SOLD TO CANADIANS

25-Cent Stamp Announced To Assist Dominion's War Financing

OTTAWA, May 20.—Canadians, it was learned last night, will be invited to buy 25-cent savings stamps to help finance the dominion's war effort.

These stamps, similar to the thrift stamps sold in schools in the first Great War, will be sold in post offices, banks and chain stores that have nation-wide branches. The stamps will be associated with the sale of war savings certificates.

Finance Minister J. L. Ralston already has announced certificates, as low as $5 and ranging upwards in multiples of $5 will go on sale shortly. They are calculated to bring the person of small means into the war-financing effort and the war savings stamps will enable those with even smaller means to take part.

Col. Ralston is expected to make known complete details of the stamps and certificates in about a week.

It was understood the public will be able to buy a $5 certificate for approximately $4 and when the certificate falls due the full $5 will be paid the holder. No announcement has been made of the time the certificates will run, but it will be less than 10 years.

Since no interest is paid, the certificates will be free of income tax. When the $5 certificate is redeemed the investor will get approximately $1 more than he paid but that will be considered as capital and will not be liable to income tax.

As was the case with the thrift stamps of the first Great War, buyers of war savings stamps will be given forms on which to paste the stamps. When they have a sufficient number they can turn them in for the war savings certificates.

Rev. Mason, 86, Citizen 29 Years, Passes On Monday

Resident of Edmonton for the past 29 years, Rev. W. A. Mason, 86, died at his family residence, 11216 91 street, Monday morning.

Born in Pictou county, Nova Scotia, on February 7, 1854, he preached in Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island for many years before coming to Edmonton in the spring of 1911. He was married in 1892, to Martha Johnson at Long River, P.E.I.

Since coming to Alberta, he had preached in several mission fields in the province.

He is survived by his wife, three daughters, Mrs. A. Herd, Mrs. W. J. Jones, and Mrs. E. S. Forbes, and eight grandchildren, all of Edmonton ;and one brother, C. G. Mason of San Francisco.

Funeral services will be held at Andrew's funeral parlor Wednesday at 3:30 p.m., with Rev. Finnis Marsh officiating. Interment will be made in the Edmonton cemetery.

Driver Charged

Pat Montague, Moose Jaw, was charged with dangerous driving, following a collision, early Sunday, between a car operated by him and one driven by William Clark, 10308 121 street, at the intersection of 97 street and 102A avenue. Both cars were considerably damaged although no injuries were suffered by either driver.

Appearing in court Monday, Montague had his case set over until Tuesday and was released on bail of $100.

Truck Is Stolen

Theft of a Chevrolet light delivery truck, bearing Alberta License No. C-6937, belonging to Sam Brezer, 9633 110 avenue, was reported to police over the week-end. The truck was taken from the street in front of Brezer's home. The vehicle is painted a light blue and has a slightly damaged left rear fender and bent radiator grid.

100,000 DUTCH CIVILIANS DIE IN ROTTERDAM

Possible Similar Attacks On Other Cities Causes Army To Quit

PARIS, May 20.—The Dutch legation charged last night that German bombers killed more than 100,000 civilians in Rotterdam alone and razed one-third of the city.

The prospect that other cities would be similarly treated forced the Dutch armies to lay down their arms, but the country will continue fighting, a legation communiue said.

"According to a most moderate estimate, the number of dead in this work of destruction, monstrous and horrifying as a nightmare and absolutely without precedent, must have greatly exceeded 100,000, the population of Rotterdam being 500,000 souls," it said. "The devastation covered an area about one-third of the city."

RECALLS DANTE'S "INFERNO"

(A Reuter's News Agency dispatch describing the Dutch account of the Rotterdam bombardment said that scenes that recalled Dante's "inferno" ensured after the air attacks with fires and explosions "everywhere."

The communique repeated a previous assertion by the legation here that the Dutch army lost 25 per cent of its effectives, or about 100,000 men.

It said that 85 per cent of the Queen's Guards were killed and that the air force was "virtually annihilated."

In Rotterdam, the communique said that an area of 15 to 20 square kilometres (about 16 square miles) was laid waste. Not a single house remained standing in the area.

It is estimated that no one escaped from this zone. Everything was buried and fire spread rapidly.

31ST BATTALION NAMES OFFICERS AT CITY PARLEY

Spirit of 1914-1918 was recaptured by former members of a famed Alberta unit Saturday on the occasion of the annual banquet and business meeting of the 31st Battalion Association at the Masonic Temple.

Despite the gravity of the news from overseas, about 80 members of the organization proved that dark hours have never daunted the fighting men from Alberta. Songs, both old and new, and many a happening of the heroic days recalled the comradeship of 25 years ago. The 31st Battalion was in the Iron Sixth Brigade of the Second Canadian Division.

J. H. Blackburn was elected president, succeeding I. Tidswell, who has headed the association for the past year.

Other officers elected are: Harry Holmes, vice-president; Roy Purser, secretary; C. H. Thompson, treasurer. The following comprise the executive: Grant McCartney, R. Hanna, Roy Alton, J. Hutchinson, Stan Buffer, J. Hollingshead and A. Thomas.

Messages of greeting were dispatched to the former commanding officer, Brig.-Gen. A. H. Bell, C.M.G., D.S.O., at Victoria, B. C., and Lt.-Col. W. G. Stillman, O.C. Edmonton Regiment, C.A.S.F., Aldershot, England.

It was decided to learn from Lt.-Col. Stillman how many ex-members of the 31st are now serving with the Edmonton Regiment in England, so that smokes and other comforts may be forwarded to them in the field.

Several out-of-town members of the association attended the meeting and there were invited guests from military units now stationed here.

Goebbels Kids Troops Nazi Prisoners Find; Truth Amazes Them

By SAM ROBERTSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, May 20.—The Nazi propaganda mill has led the people of Germany to believe that Canadian troops have not yet reached the United Kingdom, according to German prisoners of war.

A sergeant-major of the Canadian 1st Division who recounted for The Canadian Press today a talk he had with five men rescued from a destroyed Nazi submarine said they were amazed at the sight of "Canada" shoulder badges on his battle dress.

"They couldn't believe their eyes," the sergeant said, "and I had a difficult time convincing them that I was really Canadian. They had been fed two false reports. At first they were told that Canada was not actively engaged in the war. Later they were informed that all 1st Canadian Division troopships were torpedoed by U-boats in the Atlantic.

JOE THE JOKER

The sergeant chuckled.

"I took great pleasure in telling them that Goebbels has been kidding the troops," he said.

The sergeant, whose identity cannot be revealed for military reasons, talked with the prisoners during a sight-seeing tour of the north. He visited a civilian prison where they were held pending transfer to a regular internment camp. He is from Kitchener, Ont., and speaks German.

Four of the Nazis were "mere boys still in their teens," the Canadian said. They told him they had not relished submarine duty "because of the ruthlessness of the U-boat campaign they were commanded to carry out." They were glad the war was over for them and did not mind being in prison once they learned they were not going to be shot.

ARE DISILLUSIONED

The sergeant said the men had been warned that capture by the British would mean quick execution by a firing squad.

"The first few days they were held," the Canadian said the Nazis told him, "they thought their time had come whenever the cell doors opened. But as the days went by—days that brought regular meals and limbering up exercises in the prison gymnasium—they soon realized that Goebbels had been kidding them in that too."

ALBERTAN HAS WORD OF FOLK BY RED CROSS

Aided by the Alberta division of the Canadian Red Cross society, Mrs. John Hrisook, of Ksituan, Alta., has received a letter from her daughter and sister, residing in Previdzia, Zupa, province of Katrinska, Czecho-Slovakia.

Following the German invasion of the European country there had been no word from them and in January Mrs. Hrisook appealed to the Spirit River Red Cross Branch to endeavor to establish communication. The letter received tells that both daughter and sister are well, and Mrs. Hrisook is asked to write to them through the International Red Cross, which is providing service to relatives and friends of Canadians in the war zones.

Plane Floats Coming From The Antarctic

Having flown over the South Pole, a pair of airplane floats loaned to Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, noted Antarctic explorer, are on the road back to Edmonton from Seattle, officials at Yukon Southern Air Transport, announced Monday.

The floats were borrowed from the Yukon commercial firm last October and were fitted to the plane making the aerial dash over the South Pole, at the Boston Navy Yard.

On arriving in Edmonton the floats, which are valued at $12,000, will be fitted to the Yukon Prince, a transport plane in regular service on the company's northern route.

LONDON, May 20. — Armchair generals are reminded that the North Sea is the foggiest area on earth in the spring.

SWEDES REJECT NAZI DEMANDS FOR TRANSIT

British United Press Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin

STOCKHOLM, May 20.—Unimpeachable sources said today that Sweden has rejected German demands for permission to ship materials and men across Sweden for the relief of the besieged and weakening German garrison at Narvik, Norway.

Negotiations are being continued. But the present situation, informants said, was that the demands had been made and rejected. Sweden has said she will fight against any violation of her neutrality from whatever direction.

Adolf Hitler is reported to be determined that the Narvik garrison shall not be captured or wiped out, and that it should not weaken German prestige by retreating across the Norwegian frontier into Sweden. General Dietl, commander of the German garrison at Narvik, is said to be a close friend of Hitler.

It is said that a German force has been concentrated for landing on the Swedish Gulf of Bothnia coast, and is ready to move at Hitler's order.

Two reasons have been given why Hitler has withheld the order to relieve Narvik via Swedish soil.

Firstly, Hitler's pre-occupation with the Nazi Blitzkrieg on the Western Front. Secondly, the thought that an open attack on Sweden might bring Finland and Russia to her aid.

However, a British United Press informant represented Hitler to be getting more anxious over the Narvik situation and it is believed in some quarters that he might force the issue at any time.

FINE WEEKEND IS ENJOYED BY SPORT LOVERS

Edmontonians enjoyed near-perfect weather over the week-end as Old Sol turned the full power of his warm gaze on the city. The mercury rose to 77 above at 4 p.m. Saturday, highest during the week-end. High mark Sunday was 65 above at 3:30 p.m. Clouds obscured the sun's rays for the greater part of Sunday afternoon, but the sky was clear Sunday morning and again Sunday evening. Low mark for the weekend, 39 above, was recorded early Sunday morning.

Sport enthusiasts had a gala weekend, and golf courses, tennis courts, swimming pools and community parks were thronged both Saturday and Sunday. A large number of canoe enthusiasts were seen paddling up and down the North Saskatchewan river, while Kingsway shook with the thunder of hundreds of roller-skating devotees.

A light rain fell in Edmonton from midnight Saturday until 6:45 Sunday morning. Total week-end precipitation was .04 inches. Heavy showers were reported at Athabasca Saturday night.

Citizens appeared slated for another fine day Monday as the sun rose in a clear, cloudless sky. The forecast is for fair and moderately warm weather. At 8:30 a.m. Monday the temperature was 57 above with the mercury rising steadily. Barometric pressure was 27.68 increasing.

Bridge Fire

C.N.R. wood trestle just west of St. Albert was slightly damaged by fire Sunday afternoon when a brush fire became temporarily out of control of bushworkers. Apparatus from the city fire department assisted in putting out the flames. The bridge was being repaired Monday by railway workers.

Oddfellows Celebrate 121st Anniversary Of Order's Establishment

Commemoration of the 121st anniversary of the founding of Oddfellowship on the North American continent was observed by members of the Edmonton districts Nos. 28 and 29 of the Independent Order of Oddfellows on Sunday when they attended a divine worship service at Central United church.

Rev. L. D. Batchelor, L.Th., of Fort Lodge No. 14, was the special preacher at the commemorative service which was under the chairmanship of Bro. H. G. Sorenson, P.G.M. Mr. Batchelor was assisted by Rev. A. F. Marsh, B.D., M.R.E., minister of Central United church, who read the scriptures.

Members of the lodges met at the I.O.O.F. hall earlier in the afternoon, to form an impressive parade, led by the Edmonton Boys' Pipe Band. The procession went to 106 avenue and 101 street, where they were joined by members of the Rebekah degree, marching to the church. Marshals of the parade were Bros. A. Young and S. E. Blatchford.

GRAND MASTER

Grand Master of the Edmonton lodges is Bro. G. E. Clarke and assembly president is Sister M. Williams.

Lodges in district 28 who were represented at the service were Fort Lodge No. 14, Edmonton Lodge No. 30, Lamont Lodge No. 79, Waskatenau Lodge No. 153, Princess Rebekah Lodge No. 28, Olive Branch Rebekah No. 104 and Onward Rebekah Lodge No. 114.

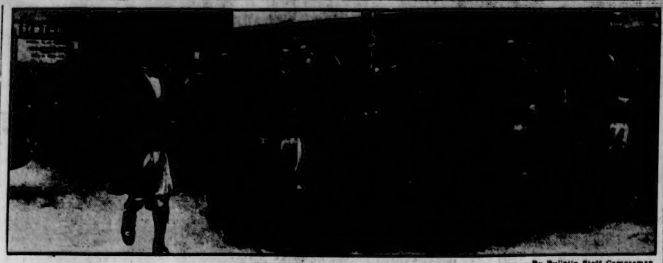

District No. 29 comprises Friendship Lodge No. 7, Norwood Lodge No. 41, Namayo Lodge No. 47, Ryly Lodge No. 75, Advance Lodge No. 97, Maple Leaf Rebekah Lodge No. 21, Level Rebekah Lodge No. 25, Unity Rebekah No. 26, Cavell Rebekah No. 56 and Beaver Rebekah No. 59.

Also represented were the Edmonton Encampment No. 2, Patriarchs Militant No. 1, and Ladies Auxiliary to P.M. No. 1.

Since the Order of Oddfellows was founded 121 years ago, many wars have ravaged the world but the order has persisted through all change and vicissitude. Rev. L. D. Batchelor, of All Saints Cathedral, told the 200 members.

He said that "such a fellowship as ours, founded on eternal principles, must have a strong basis or foundation or it would have been unable to survive for so long."

He added that it was the duty of Christians to respect the "definite value of every immortal soul" and to strive for the principles of morality in the world.

Oddfellows Celebrate Founding

—By Bulletin Staff Cameraman

To the stirring skirl of bagpipes, members of Edmonton district lodges of the Independent Order of Oddfellows on Sunday marched to divine services commemorating the 121st anniversary of the founding of the fraternal order on this continent. Above are seen marshals of the parade as they marched from the I.O.O.F. hall to Central United Church, headed by the Edmonton Boys' Pipe Band. Brothers A. Young and S. Blatchford were parade marshals. Grand Master is Bro. G. E. Clark and Assembly President is Sister M. Williams. Following the parade through city streets the lodges assembled in the church and listened to a sermon preached by Bro. Rev. L. D. Batchelor, L. Th., of Fort Lodge No. 14. Bro. H. G. Sorenson, P.G.M., was chairman at the service.

Stamps Stolen

Postage stamps to the value of $5 were stolen from the office of the Pioneer Manufacturing Company at 9547 108A avenue, in a weekend burglary. The thieves forced entrance to the building by breaking a padlock on the rear door. Const. R. Campbell discovered the break-in, while patrolling his beat, shortly after midnight Saturday.

TWO CHARTERS ARE GRANTED CREDIT UNITS

30 Groups Are Now Operating In Province, Manning Reports

Granting of two new charters to credit unions, one in this city and one at Bonnyville, brings the total number of these unions now operating in this province to 30, according to an announcement Monday by Hon. Ernest C. Manning, minister of trade and industry.

Edmonton Associated Grain Employees Savings and Credit Union, the latest to receive a charter here, has a potential membership of 80, according to officials. Its scope extends to office staffs, grain samplers and car foremen of the Gillespie Grain Co.

WIDE SCOPE

It is planned later to include within the bond of association all employees connected directly or indirectly with the handling, milling, inspecting and weighing of grain in the city area, including Dominion government elevator employees, according to officials.

Organized with the assistance of R. H. Settle, Edmonton grain man, the new union has as secretary-treasurer, H. G. Dopell, whose registered office is in the McLeod building.

At Bonnyville, parishioners of Sainte-Louis have been granted the second of the new charters. Membership is open to all parish residents. T. A. Lambert is secretary-treasurer.

STUDY GROUPS

Study groups, aiming to obtain charters, have been organized by Westmount, Forest Heights, Alberta Avenue, Cloverdale and Calder Community Leagues.

In Calgary, study groups have been formed at Canadian Bakeries, Union Milk Company and C.P.R. freight sheds are preparing to apply for charters.

In rural communities, study groups are functioning at Brooks, Donnely, Falher, La Corey and Girouxville are showing interest in the movement.

PRAYERS FOR ALLIED WIN GIVEN HERE

Prayers for the success of Allied arms on the battlefields of France and Belgium, were said by Hon. Ernest C. Manning, minister of trade and industry, in addressing the Edmonton Prophetic Bible Conference Sunday evening. Mr. Manning prayed for success of the British and French forces in stemming the tide of Nazi aggression.

Theme of his address was "Trust and Obey." If people followed out this theme, he said, "I am confident that the entire outlook of this country could be changed in a few short months."

Assisting in the service were Mrs. Manning, Orvis A. Kennedy, secretary of the Social Credit League; Gordon Geldart, tenor, and others.

LOYALTY TO HIS MAJESTY VOICED HERE

200 Lutherans Hold Conference; Attend Church Service

Loyalty to His Majesty and the British Commonwealth of Nations was re-affirmed by more than 200 young Lutherans, representatives of 13 Walther League Societies in Central and Northern Alberta, at a session of the Leagues held Sunday at Concordia College.

In the preamble to the resolution it was stated that "God has given us a most desirable land, a country blessed with liberty and Christian faith; a country pledged to a policy of peace and good will."

It was also resolved that special intercessions be made at "the throne of our Lord Jesus Christ for divine aid in this crisis, and eventually an honorable peace."

OFFICIAL SPEAKS

Addressing Lutherans at Grace Lutheran Church on Sunday, Prof. O. P. Kreizmann, Chicago, executive secretary of young people's work for the Lutheran church, Synod of Missouri, said the "modern world is dominated by fear. Seldom in history has fear gripped the heart of the universe more deeply.

"There is only one way to rid the human heart of this fear. It is the way of Christ. By bringing faith, hope and love into the human life

THIEVES SCRAM AS CAR PUSHING IS TOO TOUGH

Lack of elbow grease or courage or both caused three thieves to abandon an attempt to steal an automobile from the garage of A. E. Brussell, 11510 92 street, over the weekend.

After pushing the car from the garage into the lane, the youths abandoned the robbery attempt when a neighbor of Brussell made his appearance and started in their direction. The trio had pushed the car some distance down the lane, due to the condition of the ground handicapped their efforts.

Police are investigating, although the description of the thieves, secured, is vague.

1,000 ENJOY DANCE REVUE AT WEEK-END

Alexander Theatrical School Presents Program At Empire

Presentation of the tuneful and colorful dancing review, "Nick-Nacks of 1940", by the pupils of the Alexander Theatrical School under the direction of Miss Violet Cameron attracted upwards of 1,000 people to the New Empire theatre Saturday evening for the first dancing review of the season.

Given in six rhythmical and vivid scenes, the review featured the pupils of the school in their annual review, which served to climax the year's activities of the school. Classes will continue all summer.

MARTIAL THEME

Martial theme—naval, military—colored the numbers of the program and marches and wartime melodies, both old, reminiscent of the first Great War, and new, formed a background for many of the performances. Classical dancing numbers were interspersed with modern steps, solo tap and group numbers, to produce a colorful and enjoyable bill of fare.

Mrs. Alex Cameron was in charge of costumes; ballet mistress was Violet Cameron, assisted by Evelyn Cameron; dancing master and stage director was Alex Cameron; studio pianist is Gladys Culverhouse and dressmakers were Mrs. Boyce, Mrs. Cornett, Mrs. Halazy and Mrs. Wright.

FAITH SAID GREAT FORCE WORLD GOOD

Spiritual Values Are Supreme, Rev. McElroy Thompson Says

Christian faith is the supreme force in the world, declared Rev. R. McElroy Thompson, occupying the pulpit of Metropolitan United church Sunday morning. Faith is not something in which you try to believe, without actually believing, the minister stated, but rather a true and forceful yield to human life, and the greatest force in the world today.

Only when we are prepared to stake our all on the supremacy of faith above material matters are we living Christian and fruitful lives, he declared.

SPIRITUAL VALUES

"Hitler may have many things of a material nature, but it is the spiritual values in the world today which will prove the supreme force ultimately," Mr. Thompson said.

Faith, hope and love are the guiding forces of life and allow mankind to retain a firm conviction in the purposeful and profitable life which is above the struggle for material gain, he declared.

Rev. J. Alan Munro, B.A., of Chilliwack, B.C., was the guest speaker at a special Empire Day service arranged at First Presbyterian church Sunday morning when he spoke on "The Destiny of Empire." His subject during the Sunday evening service was "Christ, the King."

At McDougall United church, Rev. H. McMinn preached on "Power That Makes Invincible" during the Sunday morning service, and a special young people's service was conducted in the evening, featuring old hymns and social music.

Minister of Robertson United church, Rev. J. Gordon Brown conducted the services on Sunday morning and evening. "In Times Like These" was his topic for the sermon in the morning, and in the evening he spoke on "A Basis of Confidence."
